The Oracle Speaks

In the beautiful city of Delphi of ancient Greece was located the most famous of all the oracles. It was to this oracle that people from far and wide would come for consultation with the deities to obtain knowledge and new information.

Here, at Delphi Community High School, we also have an oracle. It, too, speaks to us. It speaks of . . . the largest enrollment ever experienced at DCHS . . . new faces among students and faculty . . . team teaching in World History class . . . the third undefeated season of the football team . . . the winning of the Battle Ground Holiday Basketball Tourney . . . new flags displayed in all classrooms . . . new ideas and concepts . . .

Everyday Routines Have Memorable Moments

MUNCHING, CRUNCHING, TALKING, and GAWKING are a table full of seniors.

PATIENTLY WAITING IN LINE are the last-minute ticket buyers.

RETRIEVING AN ARMLOAD of spilled books, Linda Merson scrambles to gather them before an onslaught of rushing students descend upon her.

And Lasting Thoughts

AS STUDENTS EMERGE from one class or rush to another, the halls and doors of DCHS are filled.

CONVERSING WITH ONE ANOTHER, watching the people below, or using the time for study, students line the balcony during the noon break.

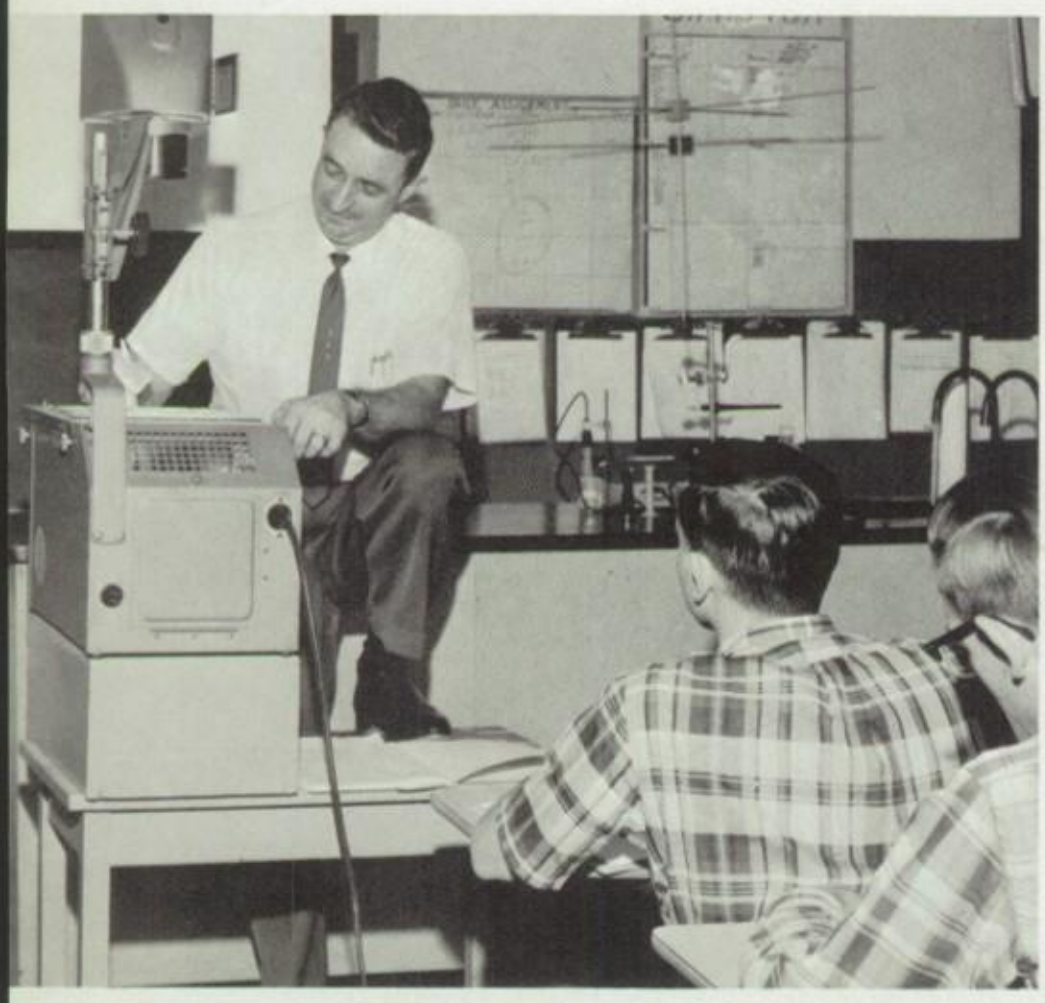
Adding a touch of enthusiasm to the systematic school day, variation provides an escape. Memorable moments are those when winter's first snow smothers the earth with its abundance or when school is dismissed in honor of a winning football team. Thoughts are instilled by mass conversations among friends at brief noon discussions. Thoughts are given and thoughts are received to benefit all in the classes and halls. The air is saturated with thoughts, big and small, to provide a steady stream of both old and new concepts and ideals.

STOPPING TO COLLECT her mail is a daily routine of Mrs. Grimm.

IMPRESSIVE AS LIVING SCULPTURES of silver, Thespians dramatize the joy of Christmas with the tolling of bells.

Amid The Responsibilities Of Classwork

MARKING THE THIRD UNDEFEATED SEASON, the triumphant football squad is escorted to the park for the celebration bonfire.



DESIROUS OF DEEPER COMPREHENSION, physics students pay close attention to Mr. Geheb's instruction.

PREPARING FOR CLASS, Phys, Ed. girls anticipate an invigorating workout.

And Activities We Meet Each Other

In the classes, in the clubs, and in happenstance meetings and greetings in the corridors, we learn to know and understand our fellow students. In is here that we study and play the role of the student; it is here that we participate to become active club members. In each we play the part of the citizen in this school government.

From the classroom competition, toil, and tension, we emerge into the familiar environment of the student-stuffed halls where relationships are furthered and extended into casual or lasting friendships. This is the setting, the scene, and the situation amid our many memory-filled days of DCHS.

A MOMENT OF SOLEMNITY from a dramatic's script is effectively presented by Terry Allen, Carolyn Howe, and Pam Humphrey.

AN AIR OF QUIETNESS reigns in the Study Hall as Bob Rehwinkle and Mark Johns scrutinize their texts for an up-coming exam.

GRADES POSTED ON THE CHEM ROOM DOOR are studied with various emotions by Mark Shaffer, Sandy Cunningham, Steve Wood, and Linda Averitt.

Foreign Intrigue Adds Spice To DCHS

AN OPEN FIREPLACE and a new little American brother, Carl Seese, help Gerardo Medina, AFSer from the Philippines, to experience some facets of the American way of life.

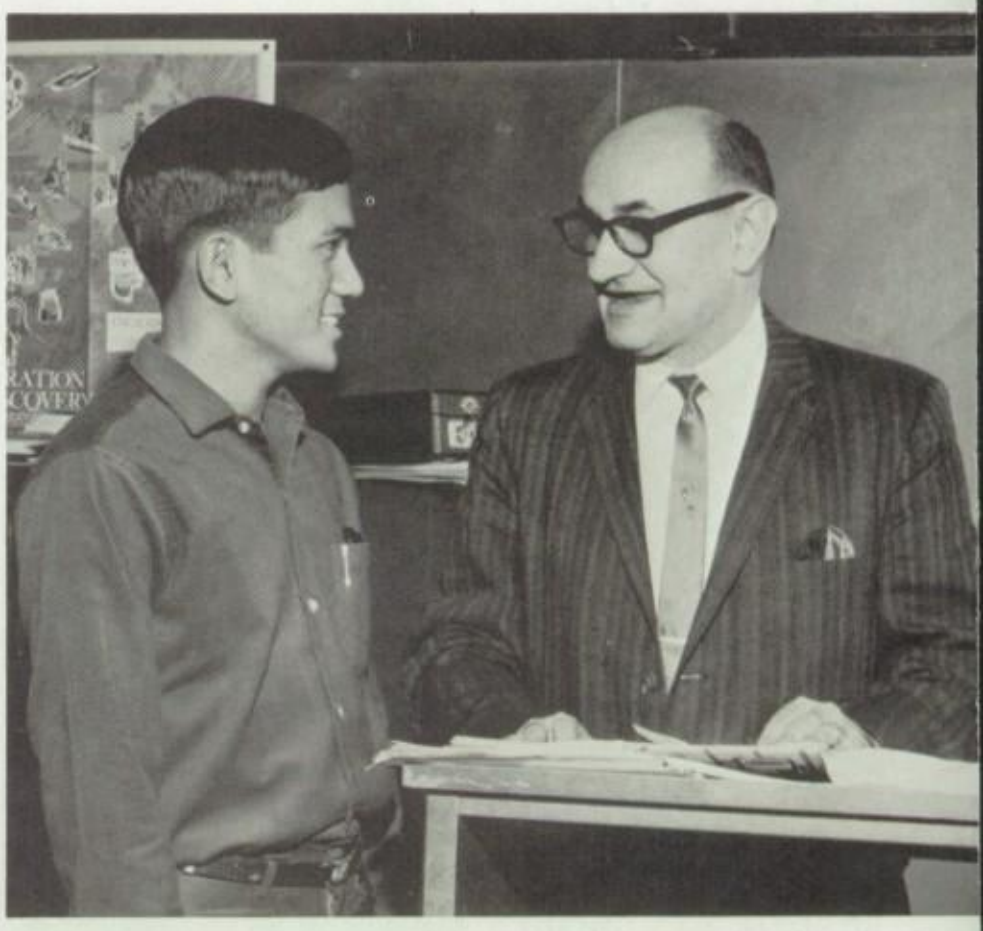
Arriving from the Republic of the Phillipines is Gerry Medina, the AFS foreign exchange student who has come to the United States to gain a better understanding and insight of the American image; and in turn offer a more realistic view of his own unique customs, traditions, and ways of life. Gerry came, he saw, and he conquered—new concepts, excellent scholarship, and deep friendships.

Giving programs and speeches throughout the area is a job, as well as an opportunity, for both Gerry and Barbara Mullin, who was the AFS representative to Switzerland for the summer of 1966. By opening these doors of learning and international communication, Gerry and Barbara are able to offer a real part of themselves to their school and community.

This daily people to people association with those of foreign birth or experience helps us to open our minds and accept new ideas.

It is with this open door to human relations that our world turns in peace; it is with pride that we acclaim these two foreign influences of the Far East and Europe in our all American atmosphere.

IN A CONVOCATION for the student body, Barbara Mullin, an American AFS student to Switzerland last summer, displays a Swiss chafing dish as she tells of the many new and different gourmet treats she encountered there.



THE GOVERNMENTAL SYSTEMS of the Philippines and the United States provide a provocative discussion between Gerry Medina and Mr. Good.

Veronica Governs Girls' State Assembly

Each year the faculty chooses three girls to attend Hoosier Girls' State and five boys to attend Hoosier Boys' State. These programs, each lasting one week at Indiana University, are sponsored by the American Legion to give the participants a deeper understanding of the operation of the city, county and state through a mock government. Each person, after being assigned a "makebelieve" political party, is required to run for at least one office. Conventions, petitions, and campaigning are climaxed with election day. The remaining few days are spent carrying out the functions of the miniature governments.

Delphi was brought to statewide recognition by the election of Veronica Oesterlein to the highest of Hoosier Girls' State, that of Governor. Her election to the office gave her additional responsibilities for the coming year, including traveling throughout the state to give talks to various organizations.

AT HER ZENITH OF HAPPINESS Veronica Oesterlein realizes the meaning of the announcement that she has just been proclaimed Governor of 1966 Girls' State at the state convention at IU.

POISE, GRACIOUSNESS, AND INTELLIGENCE are evident in Indiana Girls' State Governor, Veronica Oesterlein.

Seeing Ourselves In Daily Action As

As we look deeply into the reflection of the looking glass of life's reality, we see the true images that we, ourselves, and others represent. We gain a far-reaching view of people—not just those who are posed and masquerading under a two-faced mask, but real people.

The true likeness appears when we participate in everyday activities of school or in the general game of life. Our characters and mental attitudes are continually on display for all to see. Look again . . . see the real people—they're everywhere!

COLLECTING THE DAILY ATTENDANCE SLIPS is part of the routine of a faithful office aid, Linda Thompson.

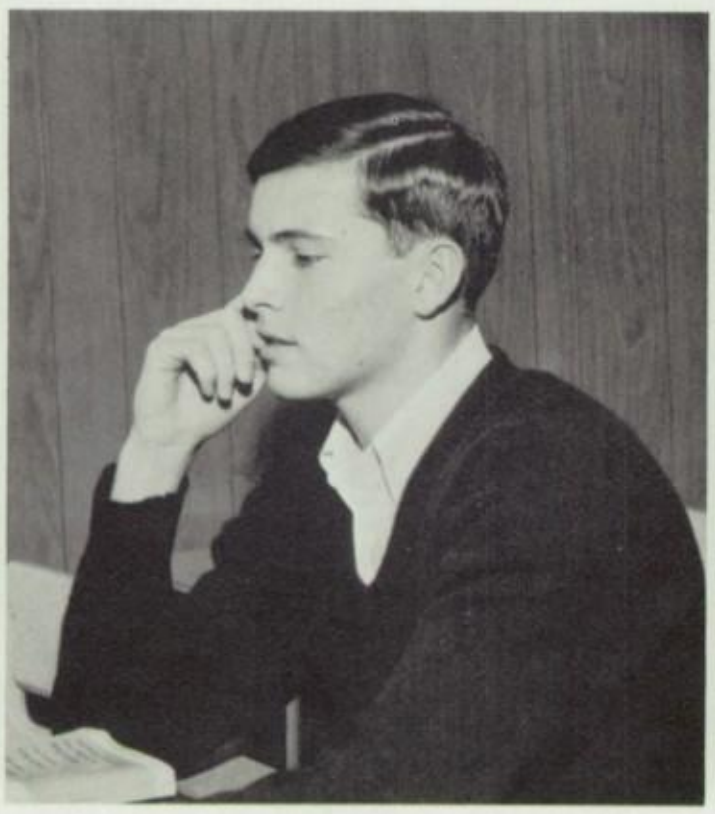
STUDENTS IN MR. EATON'S CLASS devote a part of their class period to study time and self-reflection.

CONVERSATION, REFRESHMENTS, and the latest news are shared between games by Kathy Benner, Ellen Snyder, and Connie Myers.

Other People See Us

CHEERFULLY AND PATIENTLY, Bob Brown awaits the onslaught of pupils to pour into his bus at the end of a busy day.

REGARDLESS OF THE OUTCOME of the game, sportsmanship is a key factor on and off the basketball court.



AFTER PONDERING FOR MOMENTS in deep contemplation, Mike Wingard's hand suddenly shoots upward as he seeks to express an inspired thought.

Parades, Floats,

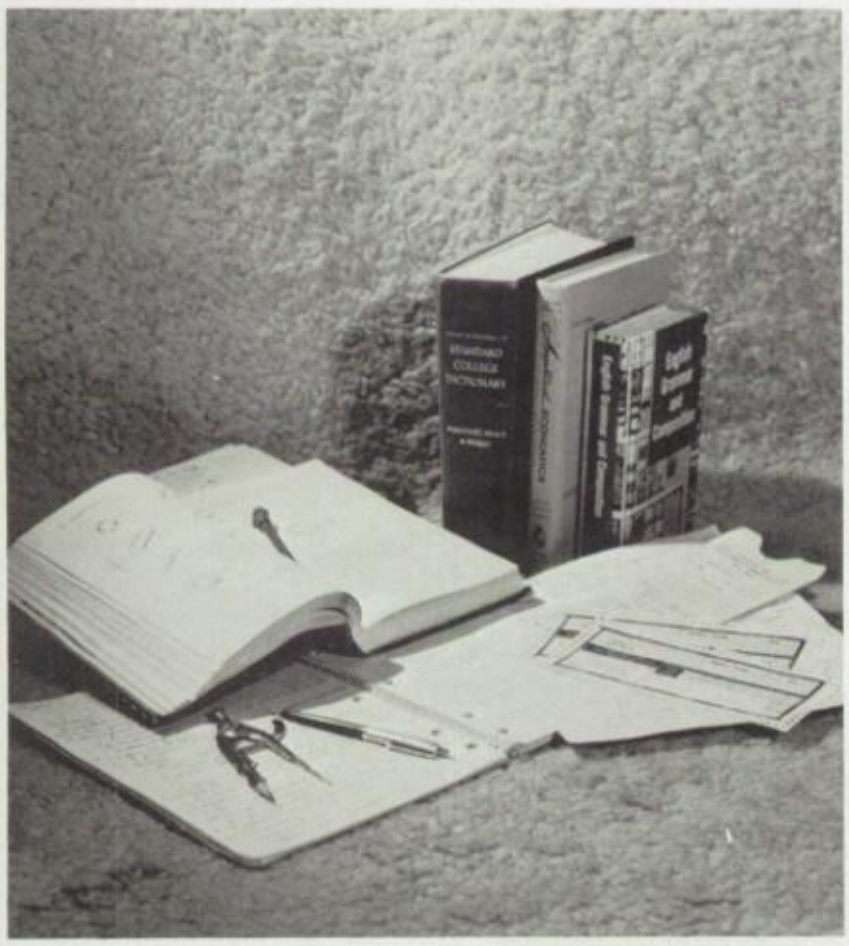
Royalty Accent 1966 Homecoming Activities

Adorning the royal dais during the half-time events this homecoming were the queen candidates who donned rose corsages and attractive suits. The candidates were escorted to the stands in showy convertibles where they eagerly anticipated that final moment when Mr. Brehmer, president of the Athletic Boosters, would crown the winning candidate. The release of balloons across the football field signaled the beginning of the reign of 1966 Homecoming Queen Diana Blickenstaff.

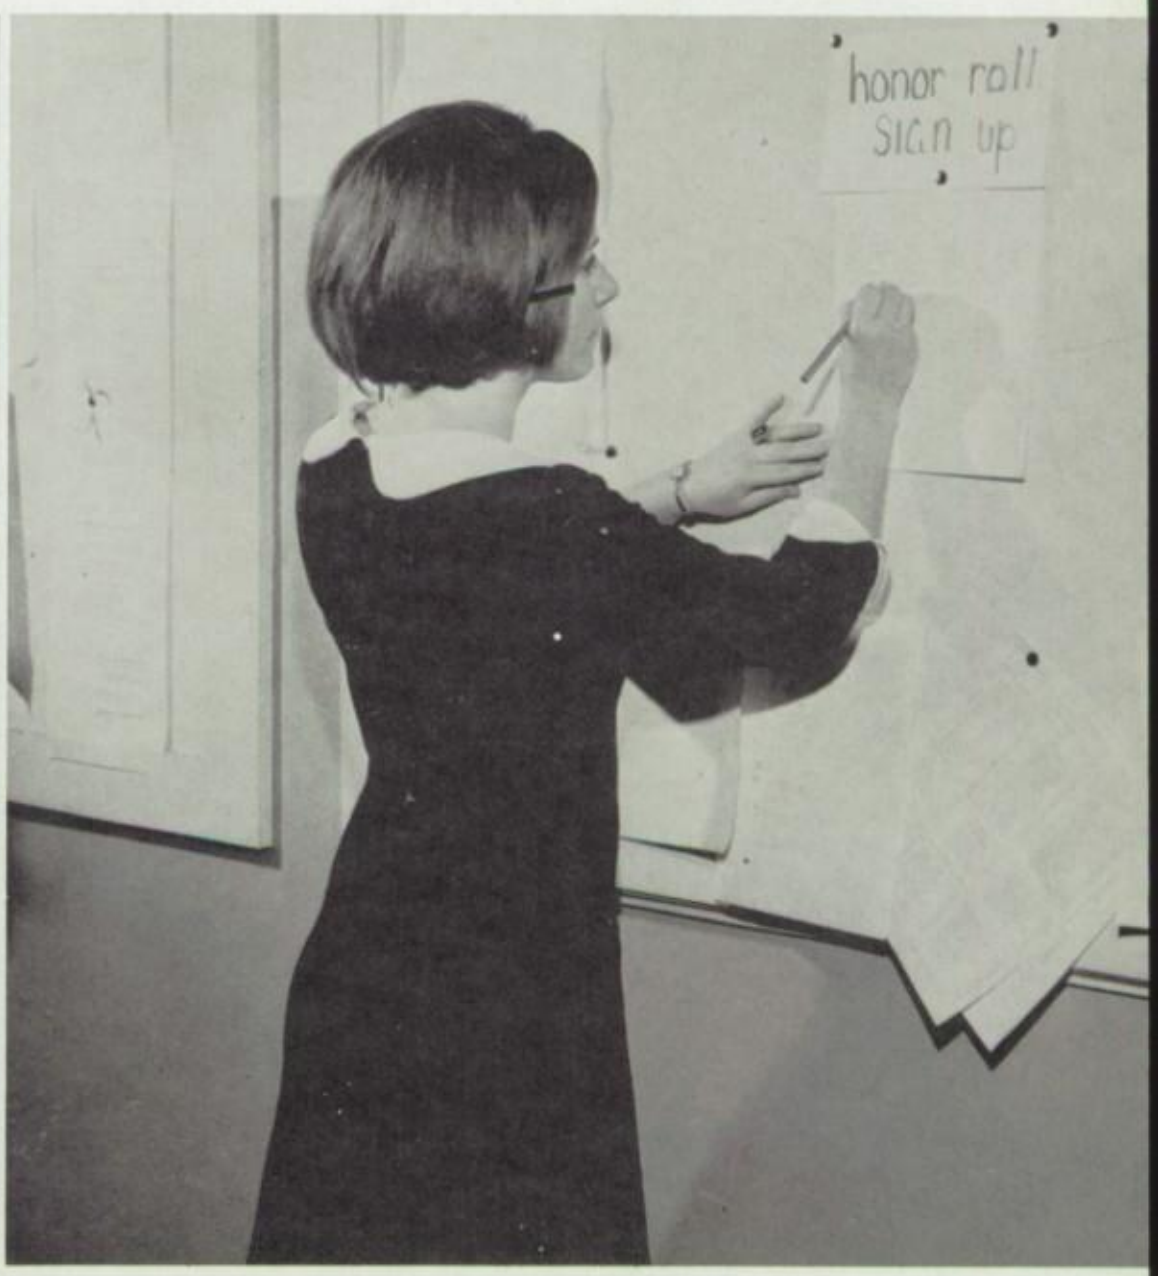
ENTHUSIASM AND SPIRIT at a zenith, the band leads onward.

DILIGENT SENIOR WORKERS strive to meet the Homecoming float deadline.

REIGNING WITH QUEEN DIANA is her smiling court Martha Coghill, Veronica Oesterlein, and Mary Ann Coghill.



The Oracle Speaks



Of Achievements In Academics

The Greeks developed one of the world's great civilizations. Their culture was highly original and brought Science, Literature, Art, Music, and Drama to a high degree of attainment. Through these subjects, Delphi Community High School strives for a broader program of academic merit. Students gain in knowledge, insight, and develop skills for future accomplishments.

English, Speech, Foreign Languages Help

LEADING THE CLASS in a Latin recitation of the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the U.S.A. is Sharon Mitchell, a third year Latin Student.

Students of DCHS have the opportunity to study a variety of the language arts. Effective communication is a common goal of each department.

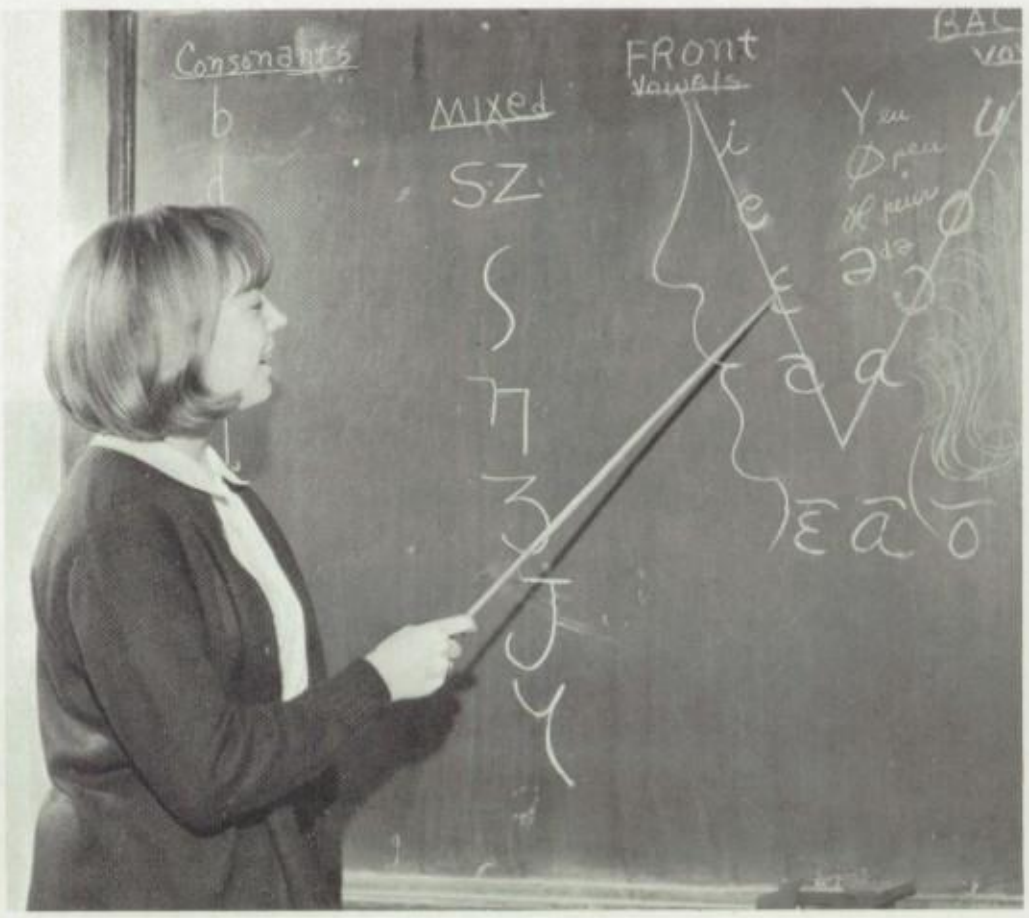
Latin, French, and Spanish classes concentrate upon developing students with fluid vocabularies and rhythmic diction as well as having a comprehensive understanding of the histories and cultures of these various tongues.

The English department vigorously concentrates on our own language. Spelling, vocabulary, grammar, and literature act as excellent stepping stones to develop depth of understanding of the language native to the locale of each DCHSer.

Gaining confidence in speech delivery is but one objective of each tenderfoot in speech class. This one-semester subject offers the rudiments in the instruction of speech preparation, content, and delivery.

Composing an effective sentence is more technical than it first appears is a discovery made by members of the creative writing class. Clarity or expression and unique composition are fundamental in requirements.

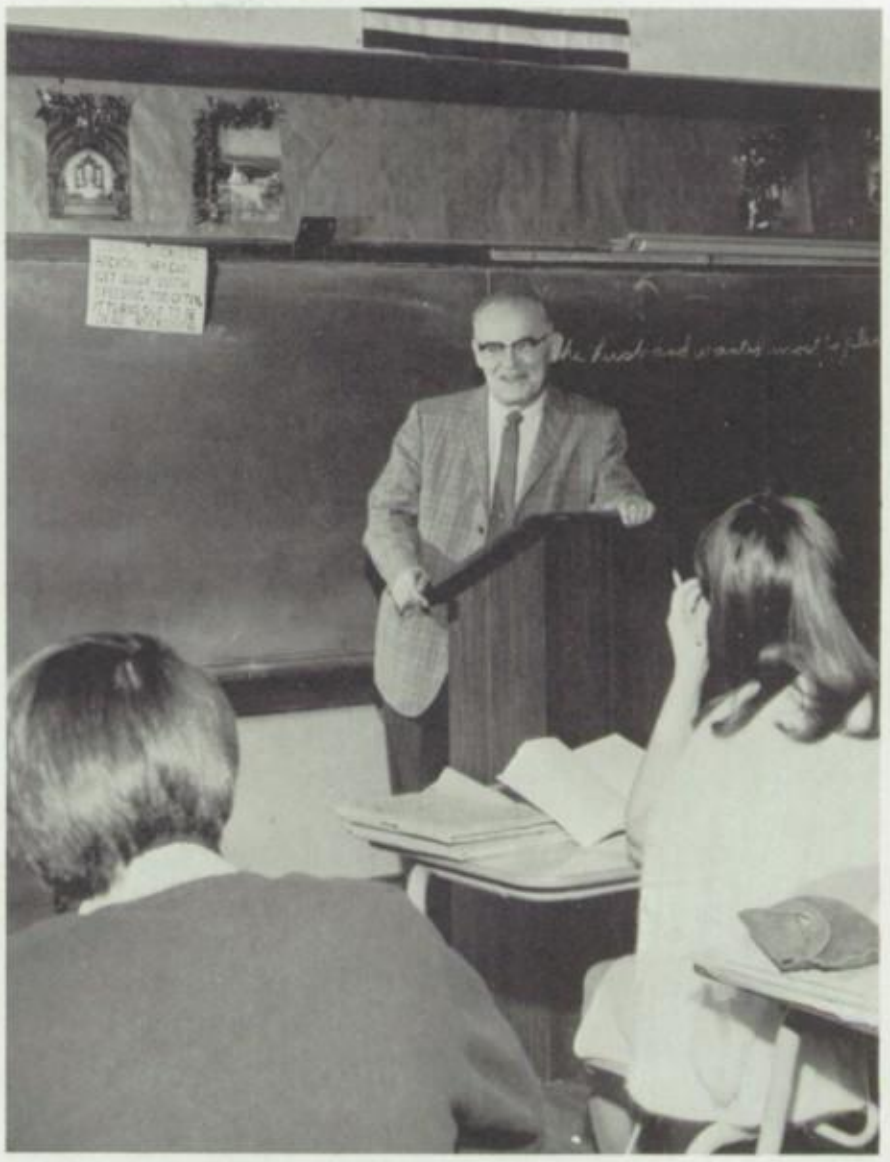
Busy students of journalism combine all their wits to produce a biweekly newspaper by utilizing the ingredients taught in each of the classes of the language arts.



VOWELS AND CONSONANTS play an important role in French class as pointed out by Marilou Been. These elements are common in all languages as are verbs, adjectives, and nouns which give color and meaning to the vernacular of any people. Coupled with the comma, the period, and the colon, a thought or idea is able to be put into some form that will be understandable to future generations.

Develop The Arts Of Our Communications

A COLORFUL ARGENTINE ALBUM is used by Mrs. Alezandria during her student teaching assignment to illustrate an important lesson point.



MAKING THE SUBTLE HUMOR of Shakespeare come alive for Literature students is one of the many talents of Mr. McCormick.

"GOOD MORNING, STUDENTS AND FACULTY," is spoken by Jerry Henderson as he uses the public address system to make the daily announcements. The school day now has officially begun.

PINPOINTING A LOCATION asked for by Mrs. Pfeifer, John Watson describes the land formation of that area.

of Yesterday and Observing Today

The development of pre-historic man and the spread of civilization to all parts of the earth are studied in World History. The students learn of world famous leaders who have shaken the universe with their theories, and the consequences of countries unable to settle their disputes through arbitration.

United States History traces the beginning of a new nation from the Declaration of Independence to the present day. Political leaders from Washington to LBJ, foreign relations, sectional rivalries, and the development of industry are but a few of the topics investigated in these interesting and informative classes.

A major goal of government class is to become familiar with the organization and operation of the government's legislative, judicial, and executive branches. Reports on current events keep the students aware of the ever-changing world situtations.

Economic classes are concerned with the role of banking, supply and demand, taxes, and balance of payments in the financial world of today.

Behavior of the group in society—both good and bad—is the subject of sociology. Such diversified topics as the family, crime, and dating are parts of sociology. It is, in truth, the examination of the reasons and results behind peoples actions.

DATING AND COURTSHIP, a most popular institution—so begins George Collins in an essay exam in first hour sociology class.

Equations and Formulas Present Ever New

Stimulating, interesting, and sometimes baffling, the mathematics curriculum adds challenge to the lives of many Delphi Community High School students.

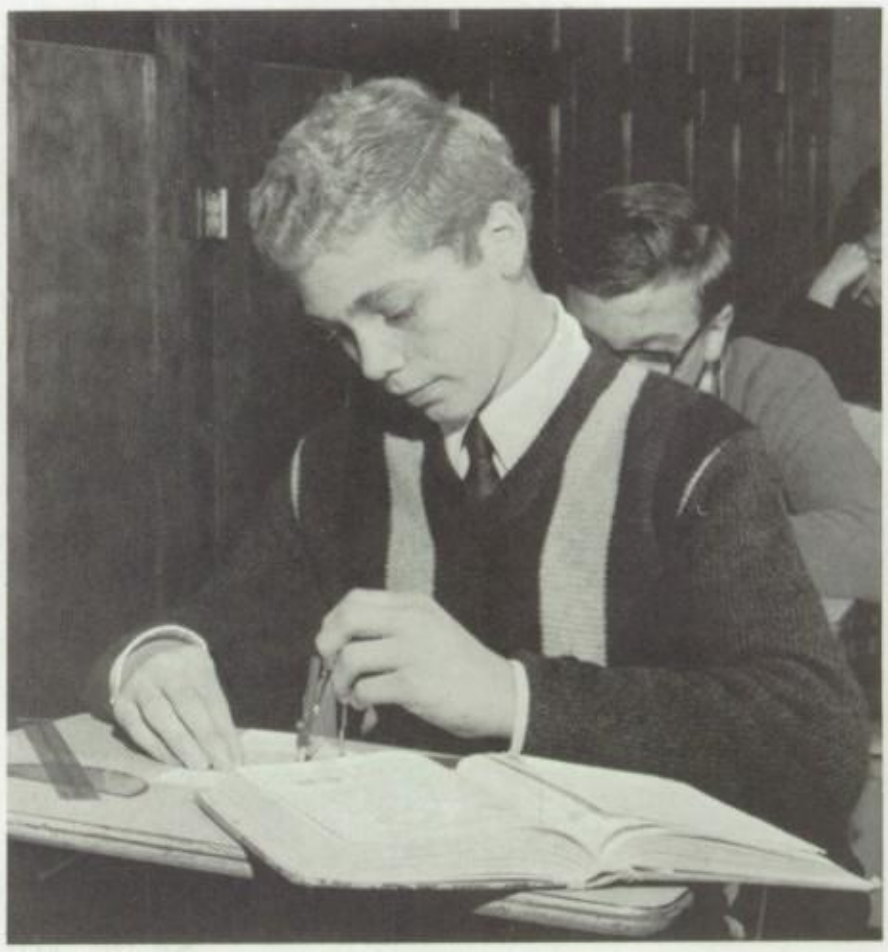
General mathematics extends the skills of basic arithmetic, and works extensively with fractions and decimals.

Formulas, graphs, and quadratic equations are only a few of the many concepts which fill the minds and hours of the algebra I and II students.

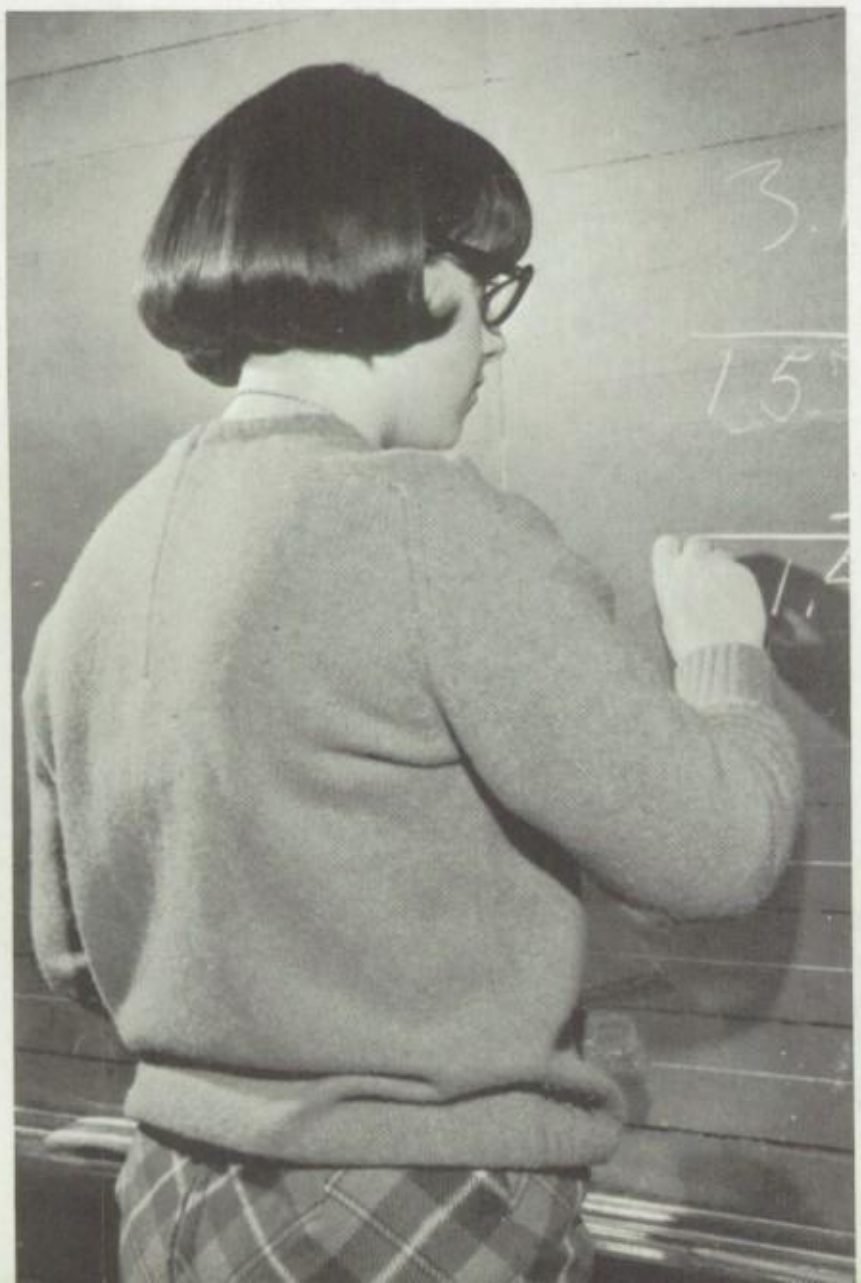
Proving relationships between points, lines, and angles and using axioms, definitions, and theorems are the major parts of geometry.

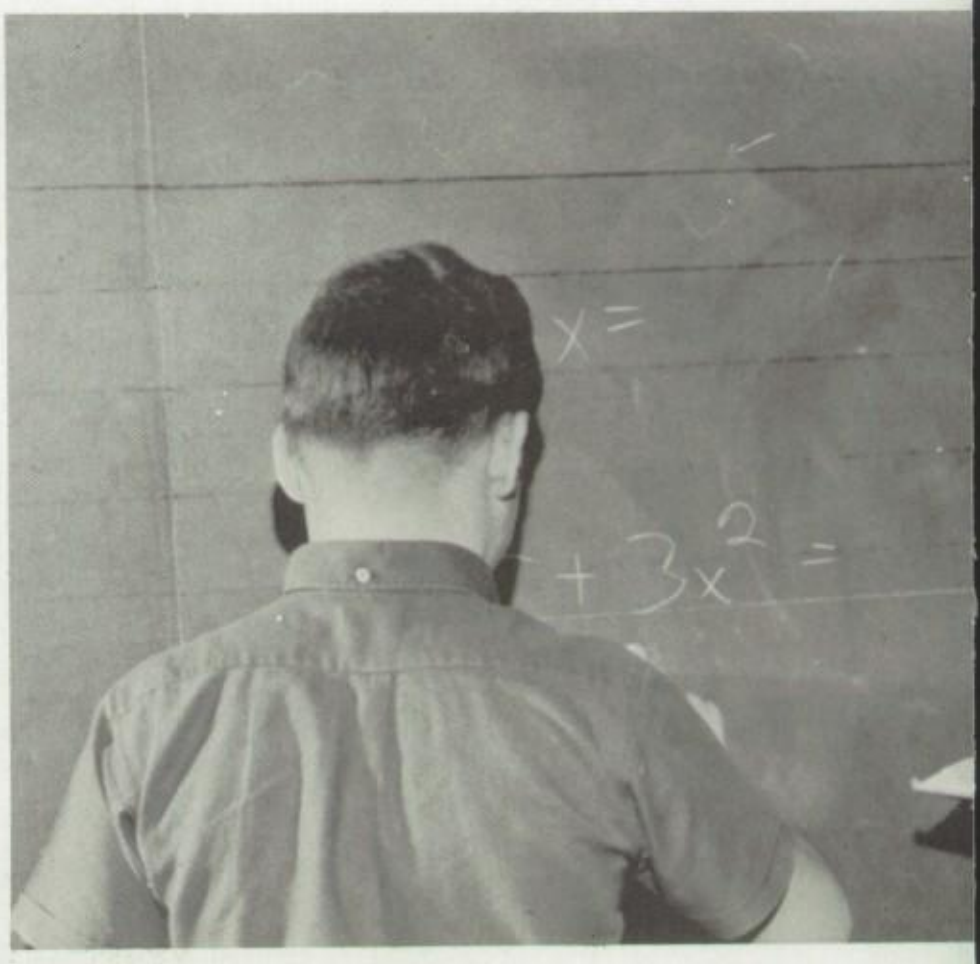
Trigonometry, the study of the relationships of the parts of triangles, is a combined devolopment of advanced studies begun in algebra I, II, and geometry. College algebra, essentially a second semester extension of trig, stregthens skills and understanding of this mathematical field.

Although the mathematics field at times seems distant, difficult, and confusing, it offers many rewards and produces the mathematical geniuses of the future.



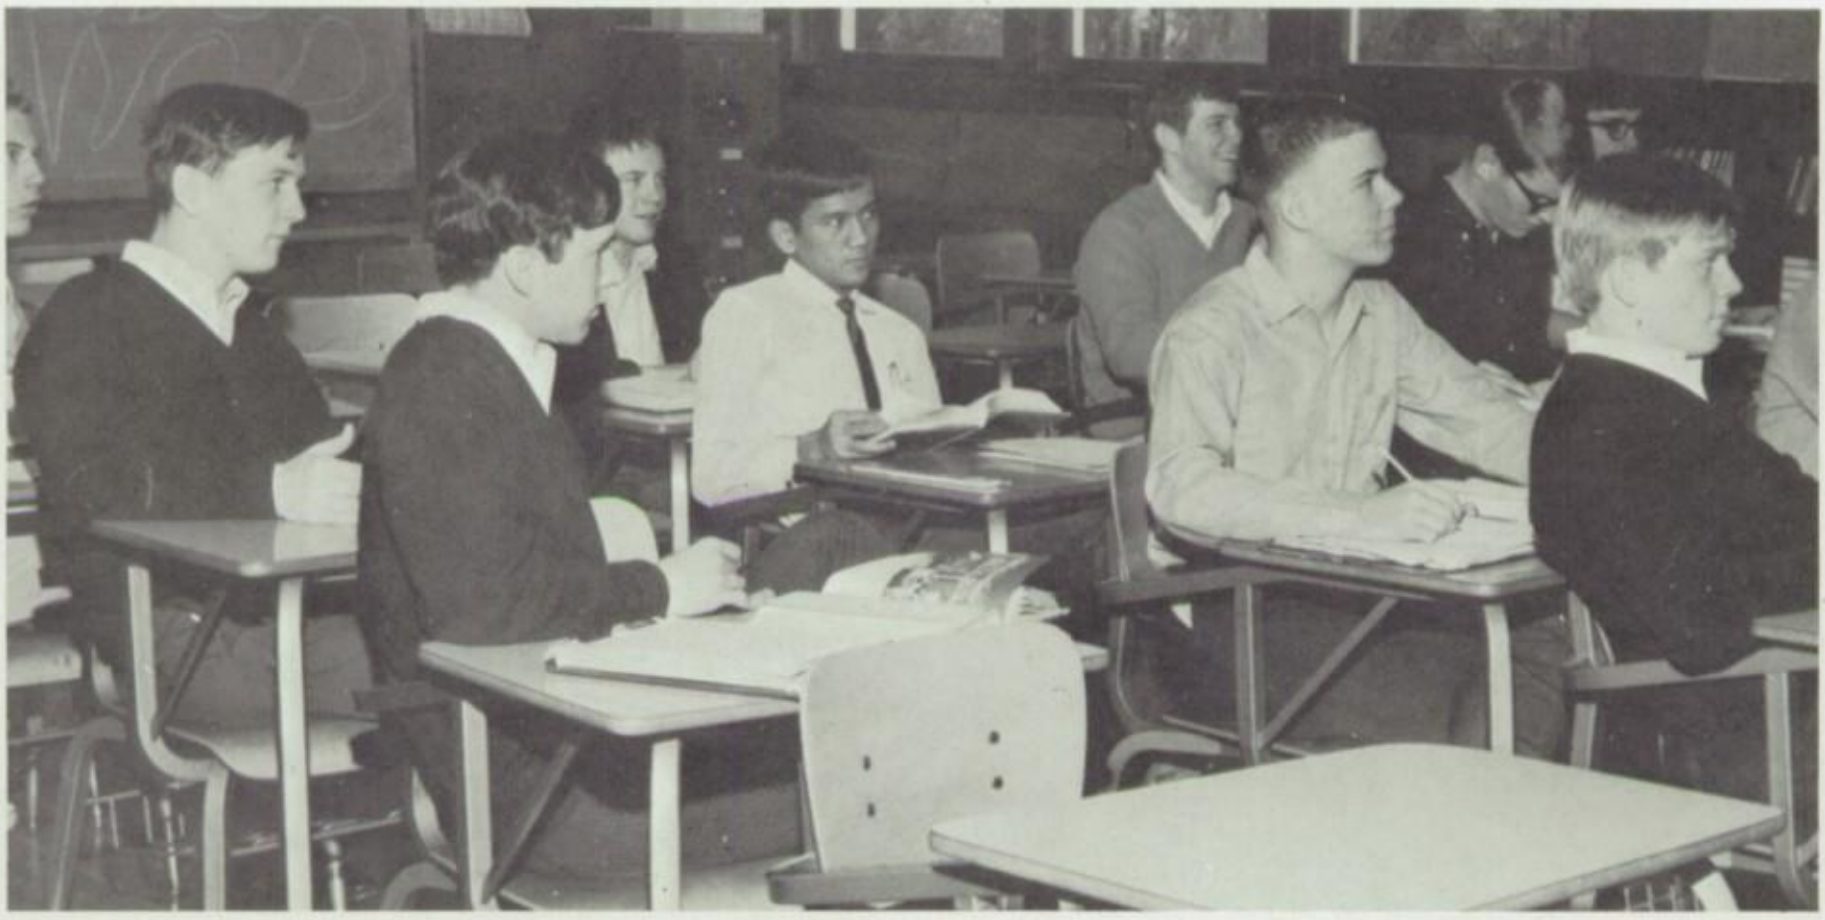
GENERAL MATH CLASS introduces Dave Foster to the varied uses of the protractor and compass.





THE AREA OF A CIRCLE is determined by Geometry student, Linda Pearson.

Challenges To Stimulate Math Students



UNIQUE IN EXPRESSION, thought, and concept is the Trigonometry class which questions and answers.

COMPARING TWO METHODS for solving an Algebra problem are David R. Smith and Lynn Williams.

A QUICK CHECK over the day's assignment finds Glenda Webb and Cheryl Talbert discussing similar problems.

We Prepare For Tomorrow By Learning

Students of science are challenged and stimulated when they encounter the many experiments, projects, and problems in the numerous and varied science courses offered. From concocting a brew in Chemistry, to investigating its ingredients in qualitative analysis; from seeking the "how" and "why" of a living organism in botany and zoology, to determining its chemical make-up in organic chemistry; from first meeting the basics in general science and biology, to finally comprehending the complexities of physics; scientists of DCHS find it takes a great deal of perseverance, determination, and dedication to arrive at that anticipated conclusion. The knowledge gained from our science classes can be applied in many varied situations throughout life. Resulting from their study of the sciences, students leave the classrooms and laboratories more inquisitive, open-minded, and aware of the world around them.

A RARE BUTTERFLY COMPLETES Jane Lantz's insect collection.

Fine Arts Stimulate Student Interest

ANOTHER MEDIUM—ANOTHER DIMENSION is investigated by Steve Randall as he works with a concoction of plaster of Paris.

Deviating from the strict, exacting, and more formal classes of the math, language, and science oriented fields is the vast and ever-expanding world of the fine arts.

Vocal expression of music is portrayed by the Youngtowne Singers, the Delphettes, and the choir. Instrumental groups taking the scene are the Pep Band, Dance Band, and the highly gifted high school Varsity Band. All of these tend to enrich the understanding of the musical aspects of student life.

Drama, in its utmost, is presented in theater classes by thespians who strive toward perfection by interpretation of an idea and emotion with voice and body. Unique, individualistic, and spectacular are adjectives that well describe the theatrical productions.

Delving into the world of realism, surrealism and abstraction, student artists sensitively depict thoughts and emotions with a revealing stroke of the brush or manipulation of clay.

The arts develop the student's taste, self-expression, and general appreciation of man's esthetic nature. They lend an essential touch of culture as well as helping to instill the deeper values of life.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC bursts forth from a group of fourth hour band students as they perform in unison.

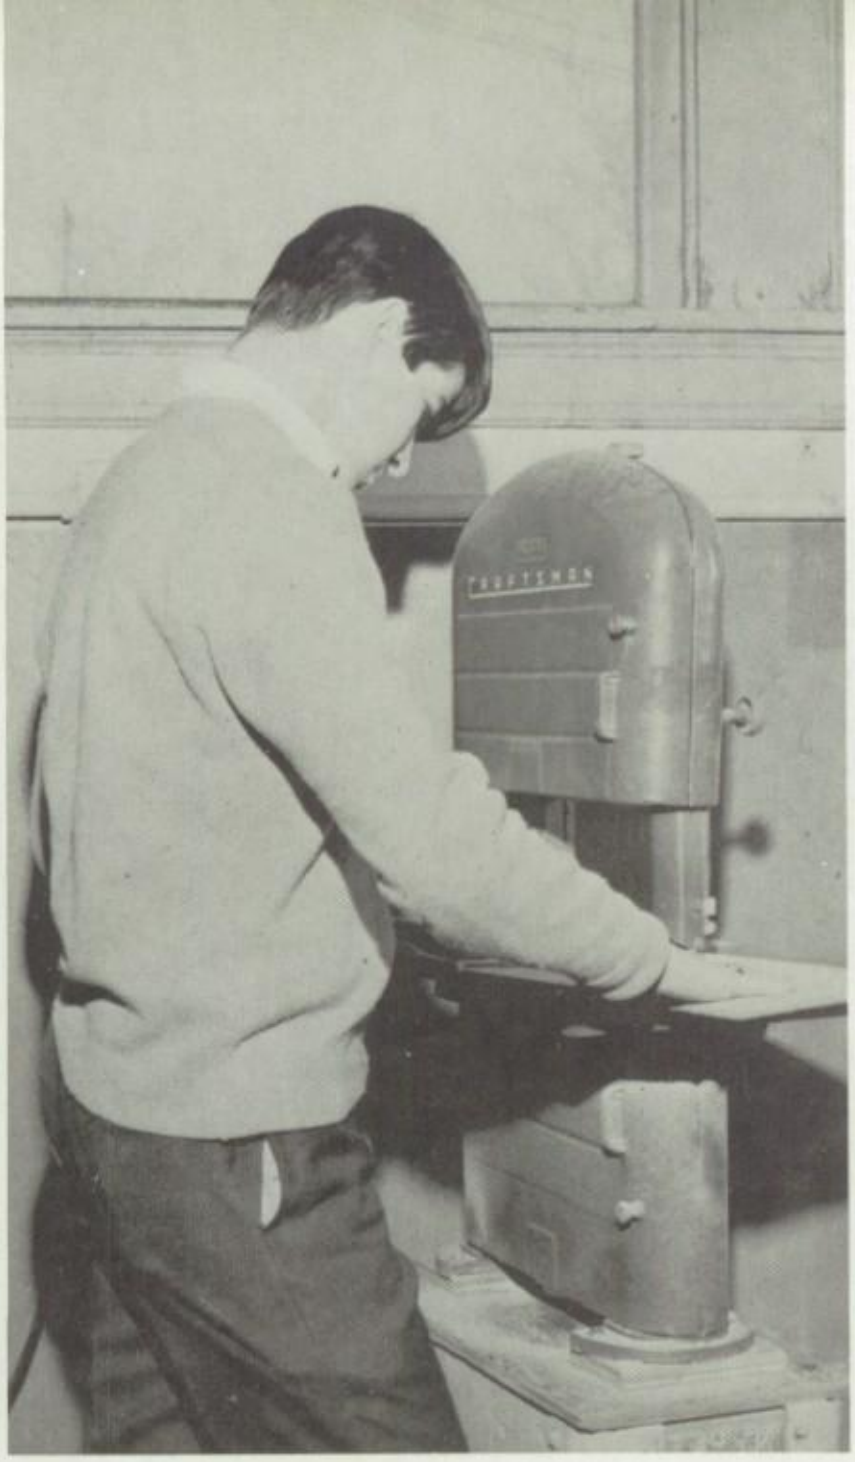
And Creativity

"OH, MOTHER GIBBS . . ." begins Kathy Benner as she portrays Emily from a scene in "Our Town.

SILKSCREENING A DESIGN for an art project is a creative task for Barbara Mullin.

PREPARING FOR THE SPRING MUSICAL, Oliver, Mary Johnson and Scott Harford rehearse as Mrs. James accompanies them at the piano.

Skilled Hands, Know-How

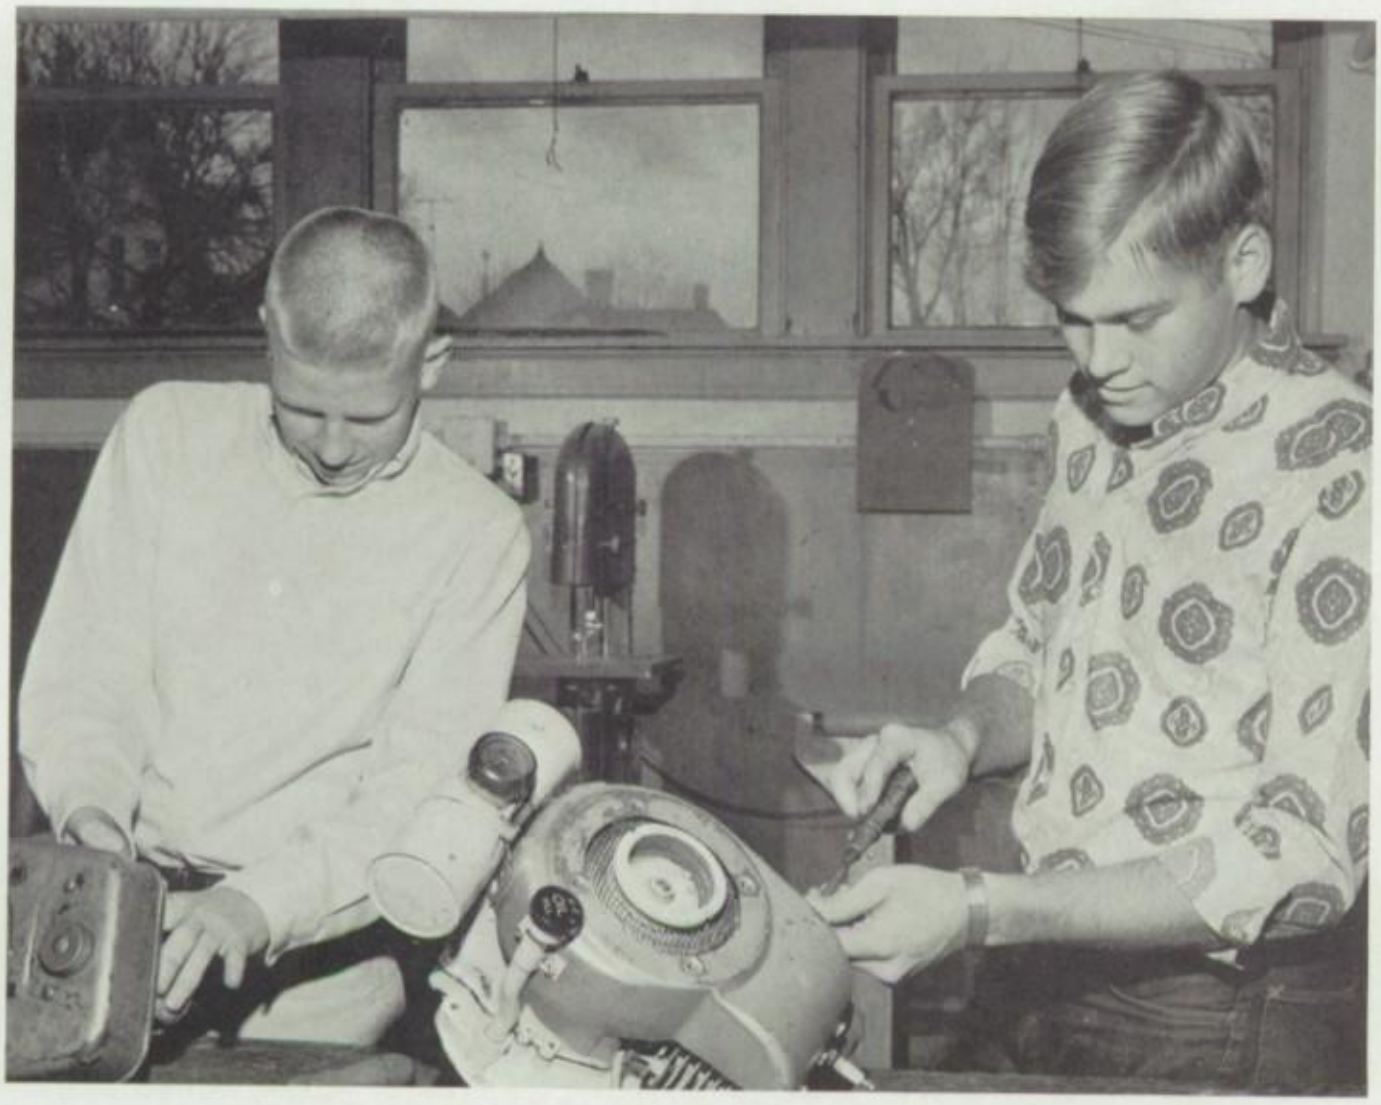


WITH A STEADY HAND Tie Ebrite carefully saws a piece of wood to follow his design pattern.

COLORFUL AND WELL DESIGNED tickets are printed by Loran Lantz.

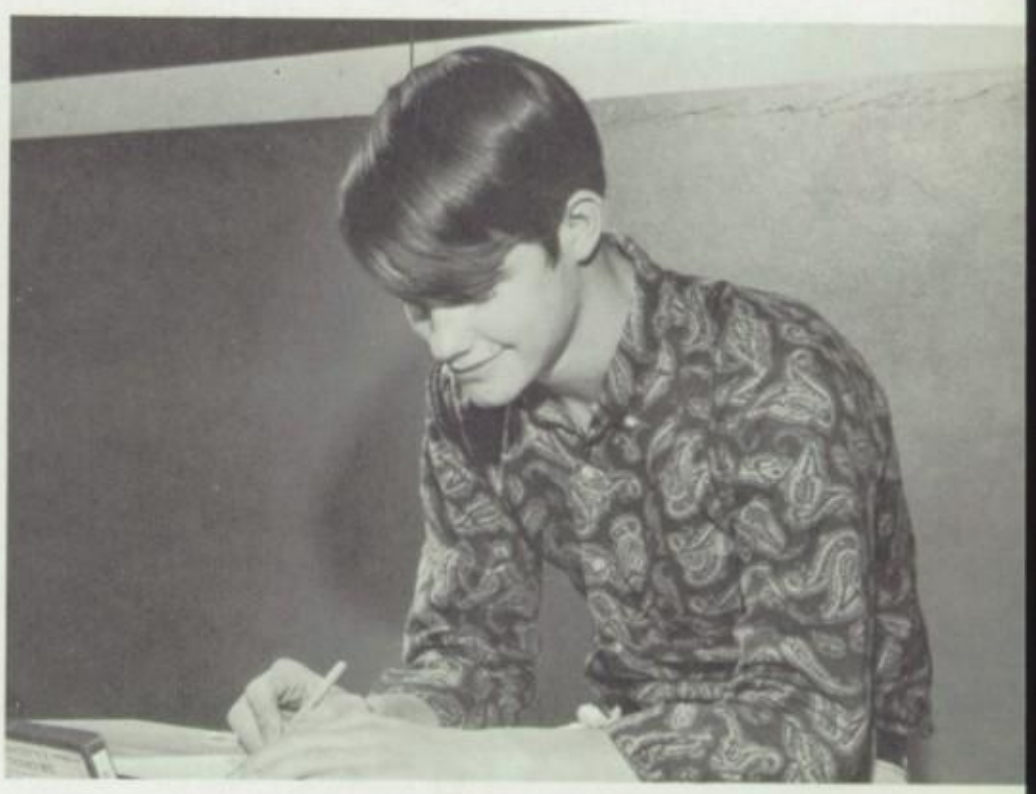
THE CORRECT PROCEDURE of sanding is demonstrated by Mike Emmons as Clarence Hammond observes with interest.

And Imagination Build For Better Tomorrows



PATIENCE AND KNOW-HOW are necessary to Gary Yoder and Steve Wagoner as they work on two motors to bring them into good working condition.

The sounds of the buzzing table saw can be heard echoing through the halls of the building as the boys in the industrial arts shop create useful and attractive articles from wood and metal. The first step in the process of building a career in industrial art begins with the basics as presented in General Shop. From there the students begin to advance to courses in such specialized fields of industrial education as drafting, woodshop, metalshop, machineshop and printing. In the industrial arts department, students become familiar with modern industry and learn to handle their tools and equipment properly. The necessity of careful planning of projects becomes more clearly understood when they construct a finely finished product.



NEATNESS AND ACCURACY are important in the work of a well executed drafting paper as Wayne Garrison works to complete an assignment.

Classes Launch New Ideas For Better Homes

WITH A BIT of instructive encouragement, Mrs. Stivers reminds Candy Blake of the correct procedures for ironing box pleats.

The tantalizing aroma of cookies fills the room with a delicate fragrance. Sewing machines buzz as finishing stitches are added for that finishing touch. Such scents come from the home economics classes but they could well be a glimpse into the lives of many girls in the near future.

First year students study the planning, preparation, and serving of a well-balanced meal. Health and safety in the home, as well as personality development are also taught during this first year.

The second year of home ec becomes more complex and the course includes the study of family health, home care of the sick, and family food needs. One highlight of the year is the enlightening instruction of caring for and entertaining young children.

Preparation for marriage and a study of family life, along with selection of furnishing and management of the home are all parts of HE III.

A fourth year student investigates interior design. A grand finale is the sewing of coats and suits useful for wearing apparel.

Each year gives young women a more vivid insight into the successful making of a home.

THE BASIC INGREDIENTS of a tasty concoction are added by Debbie McCarty as she prepares a culinary treat for the class.

ACCURACY IN PINNING on patterns results in a better finished product as is realized by Carol Cleaver and Linda Simons.

Students Strive For Advances In Farming

Because of the rising competition in the world of today, a sturdy foundation in up-to-date farming methods is essential for the formation of the nation's food producers of tomorrow. Farmers of today must know not only how to scientifically plant crops and treat the soil, but must also know how to repair equipment and care for animals. Such a firm foundation as this is provided by the agriculture department of DCHS. Four years of ag are offered; therefore, the students taking the courses receive an abundance of knowledge in these areas. Through colorful and fascinating films, they become acquainted with such necessary topics as farm management, livestock production, farm mechanics, and animal husbandry. Along with the films used, intriguing classroom discussions, field trips, and active participation in judging of livestock and crops help to fill the busy everyday schedule. With all these useful learning devices, it is no wonder that the department produces competent newcomers to the many faceted world of agriculture.

DEMONSTRATING THE VARIOUS botanical structures of a stalk of corn to an Ag class is Mark Johns and Bob Walters.

A BLACK ANGUS STEER is the subject of a livestock judging project by John Haggard and Steve Smith.

THE APPLICATION OF HER KNOWLEDGE of shorthand is put into use as Shirley Wagoner takes dictation from Mr. Michael.

Students Prepare For Business World

FLYING FINGERS SWEEP over the adding machine as Nadine Ashba developes a bookkeeping problem.

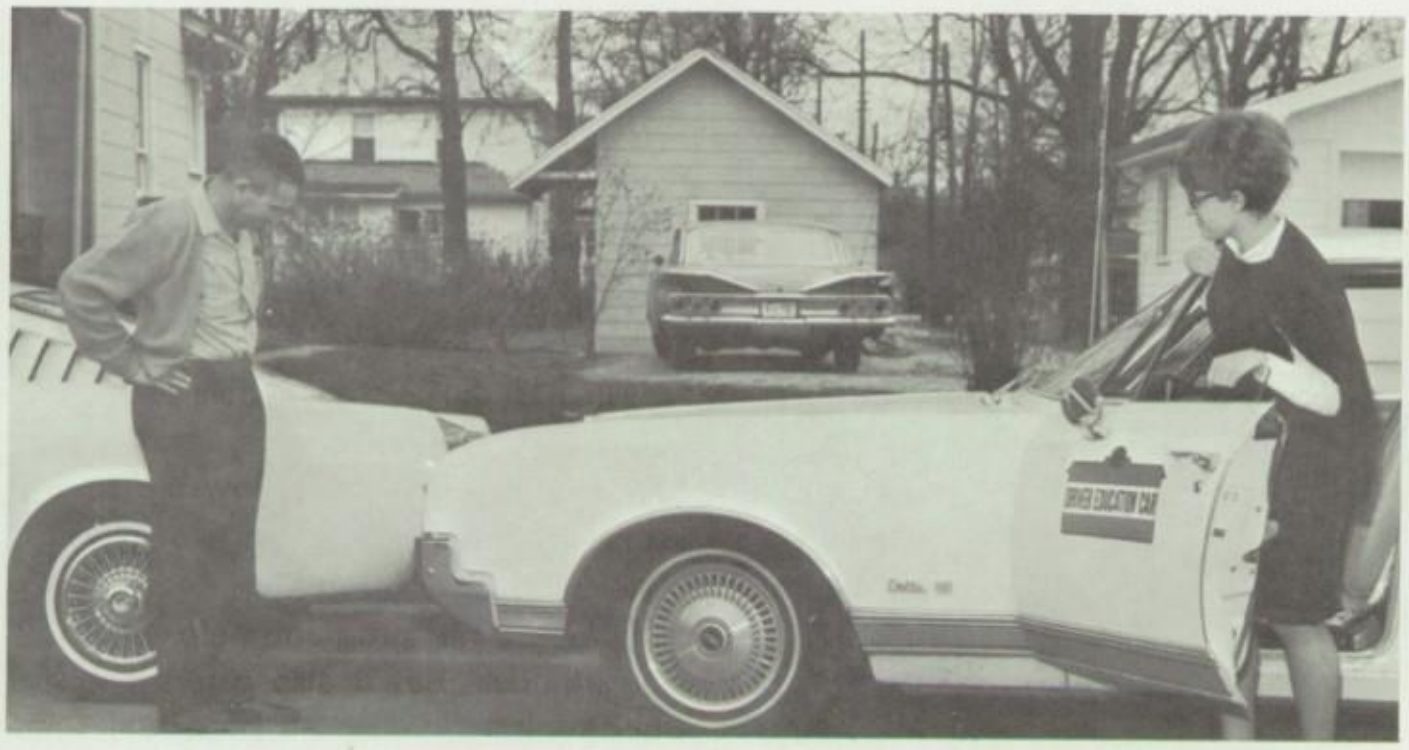
Providing a firm and basic foundation for the business world of today and tomorrow, the varied courses included in the business education department afford numerous and essential opportunities.

General business is constructed so as to prepare the student for a knowledgable background in the economic aspects of the contemporary phases of citizenship.

Nimble fingers and skilled hands operate the typewriter to perform interesting tasks and dutiful performances in office practice or typing courses. Shorthand enables many to translate English with rapid proficiency.

Very practical and unique in content is bookkeeping, a study of business affairs and personal business management. It is wise and frugal to keep a timely book of monetary transactions, and it is in this course that the student learns this appreciation.

THE RING OF THE TYPEWRITER bells signal Ricky Zinn, Wanda Garrison and Linda Hedderich to begin on the next line.



ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN —even in Driver Training Class, as is evidenced by the dismay of Mr. Wilcox and Cathy Shonk.

Stop, Look, And Listen Are Apt Watchwords

Along with becoming a teenager and turning 16 come many responsibilities; one of these is learning to become an accomplished driver.

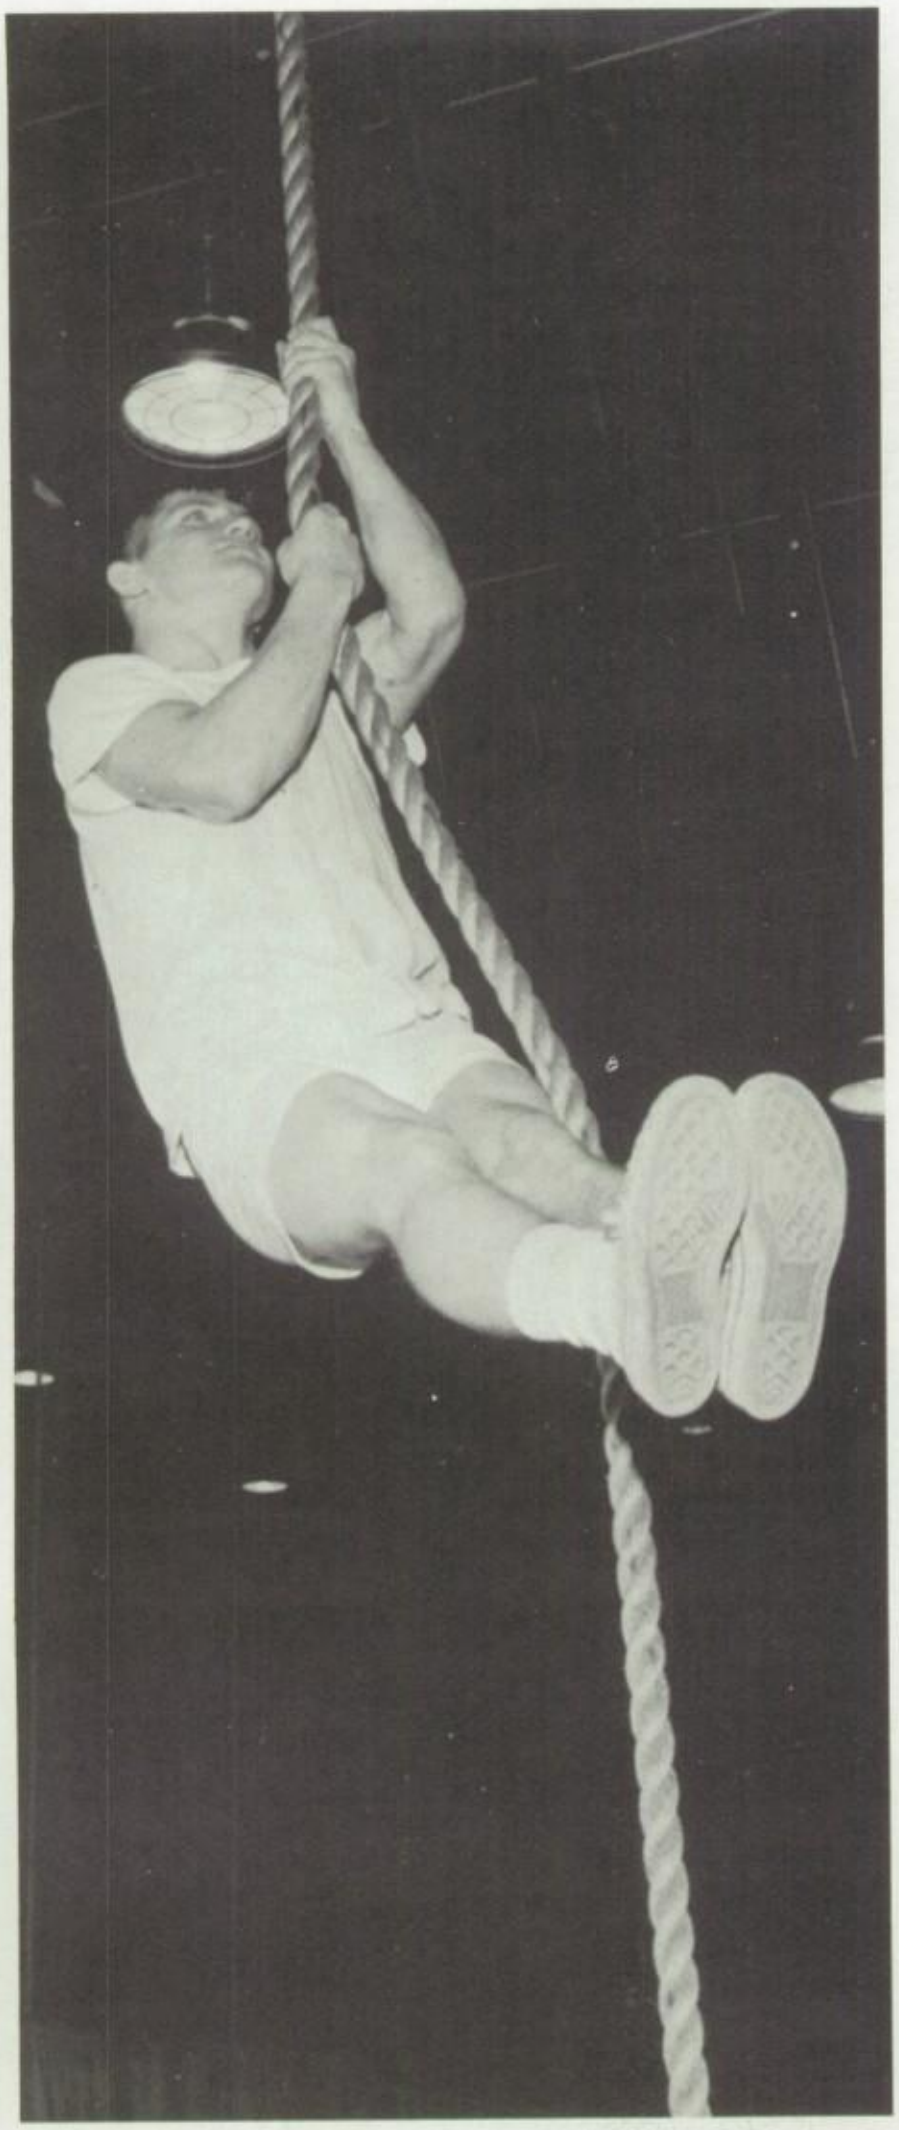
Under the guidance of skilled and often strong-hearted driver training instructors, eager students learn the most important safety factors of driving. Even the girls in the class learn how to cope with the frustrating job of changing a flat tire.

In the classroom the beginning drivers watch the mistakes of others through the medium of films. Their study program includes tests covering the text, lectures, films, and special speakers. All parts of the program lead up to the final examination which determines whether or not they will receive their driver training permit, and later their regular license.

Upon receiving their certificates, the driver training students emerge as cautious, well-informed, and confident drivers who are ready to face the world from behind the wheel.

REFLEXES OF FUTURE DRIVERS are checked by the reaction timer, as Patty Buttice tests the quick reaction of her responses.

Boys Develop Muscle And Coordination



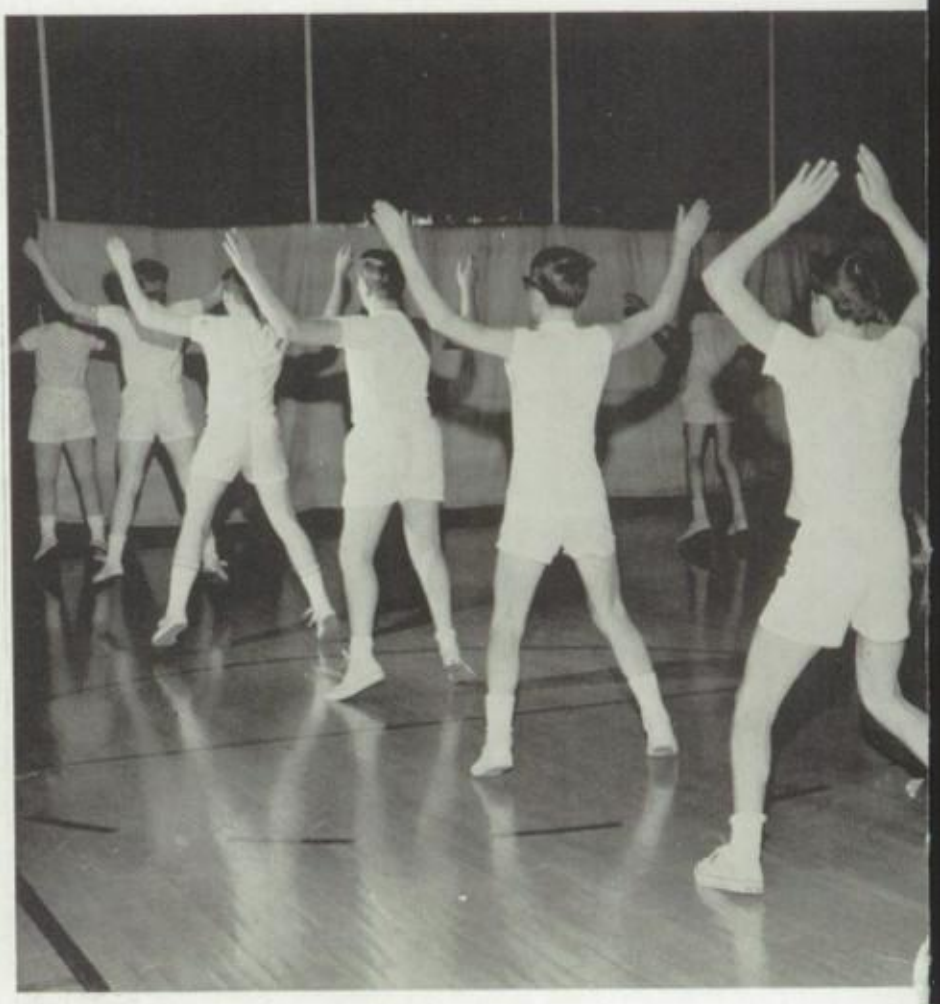
MUSCLE, COORDINATION, AND DETERMINATION work together to make rope climbing a successful venture for Larry Logsdon.

Each school day, echoing from the sturdy concrete wall and hardwood floors, the energetic sounds of enthusiastic male voices of physical education students penetrate the gymnasium. This program, which includes such activities as basketball, wrestling, soccer, calisthenics, and stunts and tumbling, creates a valuable fellowship among those taking part in this healthful stage of physical and mental development.

Not only does this program help to instill good mental attitudes, but it also offers the students an opportunity to learn the beneficial skills of good sportsmanship.

Pep, vigor, and vitality are incorporated into the classes to help produce strong, well-built bodies and well balanced attitudes toward fellow students.

THE GOAL OF A BETTER PHYSIQUE is the outcome hoped for by the boys enrolled in physical education classes.



Girls Take Time For Fun And Fitness

Enthusiastic cheers, energetic screams, and back-seat referees set the pace for the P.E. feminine scene at DCHS. This is a familiar atmosphere for the students enrolled in the daily classes. Aside from the fact that the girls engage in a rigid exercise program, the participants learn more about poise, grace, and rewarding athletic skills. Beginning the routine with laps around the gym or a refreshing jaunt to the nearby city park, they engage in games such as field hockey, basketball, volleyball, and softball. Variation in class activities is achieved by including working out on the trampoline and learning and practicing the basic steps of dancing. The girls learn of the essential elements of cooperation and sportsmanship that they might incorporate them into their character development to aid them in becoming more valuable citizens.

FORWARDS RUSH TO THE GOAL to score the winning point for their team during a balmy fall day.

WHIRLING SCOOTERS add a bit of spark to an indoor physical education session.

The Oracle Speaks

Of Organizations In Operation

The Greek nation was not preoccupied by one activity or recreation. Its life was not bounded by a single interest. Likewise in Delphi Community High School, interest is not concentrated in one area. The wide scope of organizations—drama, service, academic, music—share in the development of the student by providing information, enlightenment, and culture.

PROGRESS ON THE FALL DANCE PLANS are discussed by President Tom Hedderich and Mr. Kolter.

Student Opinion Is

Stimulating the interests of all concerned, the student council endeavors to create within the student body an attitude of school spirit of our school, the council maintains a particular prestige.

Adding a bit of spice to the ordinary dances of the year, the student council attempts to create a somewhat different atmosphere for the attending students. The Fall Dance, the New Year's Eve Dance, and the Spring Dance are sponsored by the club.

Beneficial programs, such as the soft drink and candy stand and the paperback book sales, are established at the weekly meetings. The club also provides the opportunity for the students to express their ideas through the suggestion box in the hall.

The Student council not only promotes the betterment of the represented clubs, classes, and individual ideas, but it benefits the community, as well.

The study of life is to many inquisitive students an interesting pastime and a fascinating hobby. Such students can become members of the Biology Club, where they learn more about the many and ever expanding fields of botany and zoology—the study of plants and animals.

Members of this club are curious about the world around them. Films, field trips, stimulating programs, and projects are used as a means to bring them into closer contact with this intriguing world. A challenge to each member is the Annual Science Fair. Every member enters a project of personal interest. Successful winners may compete in the Regional Science Fair at Purdue.

Students who are interested in our world and the natural laws which define its motives can associate with others of similar interests through the activities of the Science—Math Club.

The best known project of the club is its job of providing the reverberating music tapes for after-game dances. Also theirs, is the responsibility for the repair and upkeep of audio-visual equipment used in the classrooms.

The greatest portion of their time is devoted to preparing for the local Science Fair, in which each member is required to participate. The goal of the projects is to provide incentive for a student to develop his creative ability and originality in thinking. Those with major projects enter the Regional Science Fair, lured by the chance of an all expense paid trip to San Francisco.

Though the membership is not large, the accomplishments are many because of each active member.

Current Events Pursued By Club

At DCHS the Social Studies Club aims to create an interest among all students in the present governmental system. Members of this "current events club" present enlightening projects and hold interesting and informative panel discussions for the benefit of club members as well as for the student body. Watching a film from Viet Nam, discussing the probability of future war involvements, or decorating a bulletin board with articles of historical value are but a few of the club's endeavors.

FFA Carries Goals Into Positive Action

With the goal of preparing themselves for a vocation in agriculture, members of FFA take the opportunity to gain first-hand experience in their chosen field by participating in the varied activities of this club, as well as gaining the knowledge offered to them in the classroom vocational agriculture courses. These young men learn basic concepts which will be useful in their future years. They take part in such contests as public speaking and judging of soils and crops.. Other projects of this active and worthwhile organization include the annual pest control in which members compete in killing undesirable varmints. From FFA comes students who are experienced, stimulated, and prepared for vocations as farmers or in other related agricultural oriented work in the America of tomorrow.

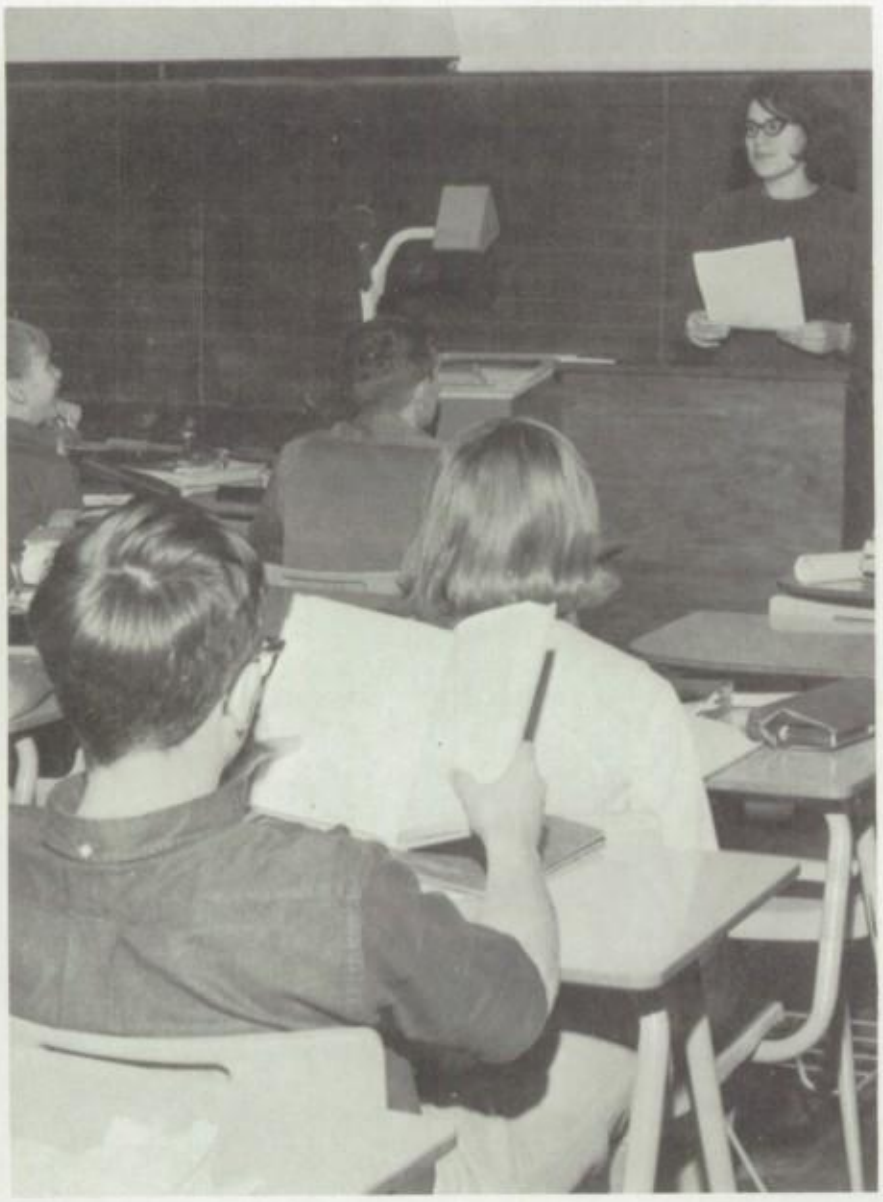
FTA Offers Information and Experience To



"What are the duties of a teacher?" "Do I have the qualifications of a good teacher?" "Do I really want to teach?" "In what area of teaching would I serve most effectively?" These are some of the many questions of which answers are sought by FTA members.

Future Teachers of America Club offers a wide scope of information pertaining to the all-important profession of teaching. The club gives each member the chance to hear enlightening speakers in the field of classroom instruction. The opportunity to participate in on-the-spot involvement in actual classroom situations is experienced by qualified juniors and seniors.

The club works closely with the guidance office to sponsor School-College Night to better acquaint students and parents with the many phases of college and job programs.

Practicing And Performing

The Future Homemakers of America Club helps create a better interest in homemaking and further develop the potentialities of future homemakers. Through guest speakers, members learn of the new and changing methods used by today's homemakers. Slides were shown pointing out the difference between today's home decorations and those of yesteryear. Working with their hands, the girls make favors for the nursing home at Christmas and on Valentines Day. These bring many compliments and serve to cheer the recipiants. Any girl enrolled in a Home Economics course or having had at least one year of Home Economics is eligible to join. Ending the year on a high note, the club usually takes a field trip. This year they will journey to Purdue and Nashville, Indiana.

Through French Club

The members of the French Club enjoy numerous activities together. Programs are planned to acquaint students with all phases of French culture via slides, films, and guest speakers. One of the most enjoyable events of the year is the annual trip to Indanapolis during the Christmas season. Several other excursions as well as the traditional French Dance also occur during the year.

At DCHS, French Club projects are designed to make the language "live" for each participant. Caroling on the Capital's Circle and dining in a French restaurant are practical ways of utilizing the language learned in the classroom. The goals of the club are to promote international understanding and useful application of the French language.

GUIDING HANDS FOR LATIN CLUB are V. Pres. Kay McCarty, Mrs. Whitehead (Advisor), and Pres. Pam Fossnock.

With Active Participation Of Latin Club

When in Rome, do as the Romans do. Thus began the interesting initiation of the Latin Club for the first and second year students. During school hours, the new initiates wore head wreaths, as did the people of ancient Rome, and were required to be the slaves of the "old" members. A banquet was held at which the participants appeared wearing the traditional Roman costume of sandals and toga. The slaves were again the servants of the old members and waited on them "hand and foot". This "servitude" ranged from carrying books during school time to peeling grapes to be eaten at the banquet.

On the more serious side, the Latin Club sent baskets of food to needy families in the community during the Christmas season, and made charming valentines to adorn the classrooms on February 14. Some Delphi Latin Club members also attend the State Convention at Ball State University.

The club motto, "Latin is not a dead language", applies well to the active Latin Club of Delphi Community High School.

THIRD ROW: Eikenberry, Sines, Brown, Gooch, Stingley. FOURTH ROW: Emerson, Weaver, Dickinson, C. Albregts, Coghill, Humphrey. FIFTH ROW: Lachenmaier, Foster, Randall, Clawson, Riley.

The Spanish Club meetings, conducted in la lengua española, create and maintain interest in the language, customs, and heritage of the Spanish speaking countries. By knowing and understanding the literature, music, entertainment, and activities of an average day, the student learns better to appreciate the Spanish language and its people. An after-game dance added to the treasury and was enjoyed by all. Films, folk songs, slides, and guest speakers added much to the meetings and gave much pleasure to the participants. Throughout the year, the study hall bulletin board displayed information and scenery of Several Spanish speaking countries.

During the Christmas season, festively decorated piñatas made by members adorned the halls to brighten the atmosphere of the school. Spanish carols rang out clearly in the community. A trip to Kokomo to hear a famous Mexican Boys' Choir added much to the successful year of El Circulo Español.

By knowing the culture of a people, better international relations result. Spanish Club, as is any language club, is another step, small but sure, toward world harmony.

SPANISH CLUB INITIATES Carolyn Martin and Becky Randall work together to learn more about Spanish capitals and territories.

WITH A MEET APPROACHING, Larry Albregts finds the need to engulf himself in the facilities of the school library.

Educated Arguments Reign In Debate Club

"Think quickly and analyze the situation." These are the instructions given to debaters as they begin another meet. This year's topic resolved: that the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to non-military assistance, is debated nation wide.

The members of the newly formed debate team learn to organize their thoughts and material so that they will be prepared on the day of the big debate. By this time the veteran varsity debaters have compiled a successful record and the novice debaters are showing great promise.

Individual events are an essential part of this year's debate club. Opportunities for participation include extemporaneous speaking, humorous or dramatic interpretation, oratorical declamation, discussion, and poetry interpretation.

Providing News Is Their Business

Flashing orange press passes provide Delphian staff members with extra time to meet their bi-monthly deadline for the school newspaper, The Delphian.

With limited equipment and facilities, and an under-sized staff, the task of producing The Delphian is difficult. One factor that is essential for the staff is keeping it organized. Each person has his job and must do it to the best of his ability in the shortest possible time. He must make the paper interesting and factual.

A variety of staff members throughout the year have had the job of Editor-in-Chief in order that different people may have the opportunity to show their skills.

Headaches, Headlines,

Everyone has to buckle down The deadline is approaching!

Every Tuesday night is set aside for work. Art and Copy staff writes and rewrites copy until it is accurate. Typists mechanically drum on their typewriters determined to complete their ever increasing pile of assignments. Proofreaders examine copy in their attempt to discover each erroneous word. Identifying the countless number of faces in club pictures is the main job of Activities staff. The Sales staff is kept busy by writing receipts, collecting money, and reviewing their accounts. Writing copy, captions, and headlines concerning sports is handled by the Sports staff. The never ending task of co-ordinating all works rests on the shoulders of the Co-editors and the Advisor.

Though tiring, they regard the printed and bound Oracle as a bountiful compensation for their efforts.

Dedicated to the service of its school and community, the Hi-Y Club assumes many responsibilities. To promote better dress among the high school students, Wednesday has been designated as dress-up day for club members.

At Christmas time the boys send gifts to Logansport State Hospital and present baskets of food and toys to those in less favorable economic circumstances. A religious convocation is presented annually by Hi-Y to the student body to set the mood for Easter vacation.

The American flag is raised and lowered each day by club members to help show the respect that the student body has for its country.

THE IMPRESSIVE FLAG RAISING CEREMONY, a daily function of the Hi-Y, is performed by Mike Stone and Ron Strantz.

"We will walk on our own feet; we will work with our own hands; we will speak our own minds." The Varsity "D" Club carries these words as its motto. Each member has the distinction of having earned a letter through participation in one or more of the major sports of the school's athletic program. By setting good examples, these boys help to promote leadership and clean sports.

Working to serve the school, the club earns money for athletic equipment by selling popcorn and soft drinks at home basketball games. The members also participate at home games by passing out programs at the door and giving assistance to facilitate the smooth running of a sports arena.

The idea that a healthy and physically developed body aids in the building of a better society is an age-old one. This thought is exemplified by members of Varsity "D".

PASSING OUT GAME PROGRAMS, a service function of Varsity "D", is performed for local fans by Phil Brookbank.

Combines Physical Fitness With Fun

Each Tuesday night, high school girls with a knack for sports, gather together at their favorite rendezvous, the gym, to participate in vigorous physical fitness programs. During the fall, the sports enjoyed include hockey, bike hikes, and kickball. Volleyball, basketball and other games are among the winter sports.

To make money for their various outside activities, the girls sell candy at Christmas time and sponsor an aftergame dance.

A generous and kind Yuletime gesture, they sent candy and cookies to all the boys from Carroll County who are in Viet Nam.

They often promote great interest (as well as sheer fun) when they invite fellow high school students who are not members of the club to be their guests at skating (roller and ice) and swimming parties.

Their active club offers a wide variety of entertainment for its outgoing group. These girls annually attend a Big 10 Football game at Purdue, view the Christmas Convocation at Purdue, and ardently watch a hockey game at Fort Wayne, and numerous other activities. At the end of the year, faithful participants who have accumulated enough points, are publicly recognized on Honor Day when they receive awards ranging from "D" letters to silver pins and letter sweaters.

The Girls Athletic Association is a valuable organization at DCHS.

School And Community

A DOOR DECORATION, a GSC Christmas project, is being made by Elaine Stewart.

RESPONSIBILITY AND LEADERSHIP fall into the hands of Pres. Jo Hensley, V. Pres. Jane Woods, and sponsors Mrs. Pheifer and Mrs. Wolfe.

Large membership and increasing responsibilities go hand in hand. However, responsibilities such as these seem but a small task to the girls of Girls' Service Club. The numerous projects completed throughout the year exhibit the femininity of the organization. Sending sympathy cards, presenting Thanksgiving convocations, and making Christmas wreaths are only a few of the annual activities. Because of the large membership, projects are conducted by single classes.

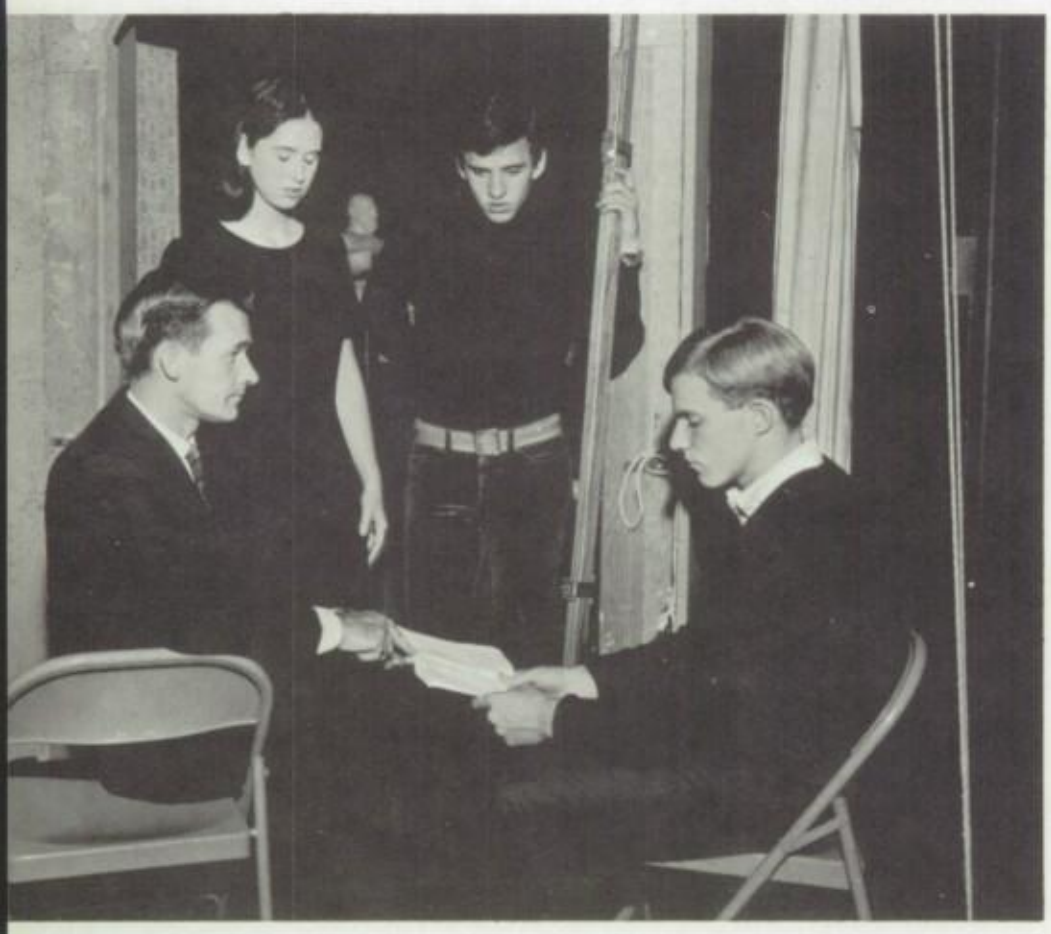
Barretts of Wimpole Street Receives An



Giving last minute instructions to Student Directors Karl Grimm and Harold Garrison, Mr. Buck relays an important instruction as Technical Director Mary Johnson attentively listens.

The many weeks of rehearsals—tense and tiring—had ended. Crews had labored countless hours to produce lavish costumes and elegant scenery of a Victorian decor while the cast had memorized lines and perfected gestures. Excitement, joy, and sadness were but a few of the emotions to be displayed by the performers as the Thespians presented The Barretts of Wimpole Street.

The drama was based on the biography of the semi-invalid poetess, Elizabeth Barrett, and her brothers and sisters, whose lives were dominated by their tyrannical father. Papa forbade his children to do many things, but most of all he forbade them to marry. Helpless because of fear, they obeyed his every command. Robert Browning, a handsome poet of rising merit, had been corresponding with Elizabeth. Unkown to Elizabeth's father he became a frequent visitor at the Barrett household and in time Miss Barrett's health improved. They fell in love, but could not marry because of Papa's views. After several months, Elizabeth, accompanied by her faithful maid, fled to Italy with Browning to become his bride.

The curtain is now drawn and the stage is bare, but The Barretts of Wimpole Street is to be remembered by the viewers, as well as the crew and cast, as another successful theatrical production at Delphi Community High School.

FASTENING THE ACCOUNTERMENTS of her suitor (Mike Wingard,) Henrietta Barrett (Barbara Mullin) smiles admiringly as Henry Bevan (Dan Sterrett) and Bella Hedley (Peggy Gianoulis) look on with rapt interest.

Enthusiastic Acclaim From Student Body & Fans

THE VIRILE AND DASHING Robert Browning (Jim Borton) professes his love to the frail and gentle Elizabeth (Veronica Oesterlein).

SOUND MEDICAL ADVICE is given by actor-doctor Jerry Henderson to Elizabeth (Veronica Oesterlein) as the devoted maid (Pam Fossnock) and Barrett family physician (Ron Strantz) listen with interest.

An actress dressed in a colorful robe walks briskly on to the stage for her opening lines . . . backstage, two members of the lighting crew change the colored lights to vary the mood . . . the prop chairman prepares a tray of food for the next scene.

Many backstage events are never seen by the audiences out front, but are shared by the actors and crew members to make a successful play. Hours are spent in constructing scenery, painting flats, and in memorizing lines; these tedious, but pleasurable tasks help acquaint the student with the mystical world of the theater. It also helps to accumulate points for prospective Thespian members. Semi-annual initiations—with both a light and serious nature—are held at the school, or in the homes of the advisor or members of the group.

Besides producing plays and convocations for the student body and public, these drama devotees travel to other cities to see professional productions. The Thespian Troupe has created quite a cultural background for itself . . . play goers will never forget the hours of entertainment given by the Thespian Club.

IMPRESSIVE INITIATION CEREMONIES are conducted by V. Pres. Snyder, Pres. Johnson, Mr. Buck (Advisor), Stu. Co. Rep. Oesterlein, Sec-Treas. Benner.

Choral Music Gives Pleasure To Audience

During the second hour of each day, melody fills the music room as the voices of the high school choir blend in a symphony of sound. These vocalists work diligently to produce harmonious tunes. Their talents develop as they daily practice to ready themselves for convocations, seasonal concerts, and numerous appearances before area organizations. Their range of songs include rustic folk songs, moving spirituals, and classy show tunes.

The musical arrangements of the DCHS choir bring out the full beauty of the lyrical ranges of the bell-toned soprano to the throaty contraltos.

Members of the choir are constantly confronted by learning new musical numbers and then compatibly working with fellow-singers to produce a vocal work of art.

Experience is gained by those who wish to pursue vocal music professionally as well as those who warble for personal pleasure.

A LAST MINUTE REVIEW of a special number is prepared by Pam Fossnock, Tara Hathaway, Linda Wilcox.

Three part harmony, a steady beat, and some lively numbers, keep the Delphettes on their toes. Meeting weekly, the three rows of musically-minded young women make up the only all-girl singing group in the school. The Delphettes appear at many local functions during the year, in addition to adding charm and harmony to concerts and convocations.

The 20 girl ensemble is made up of talented sophomores, juniors and seniors. They participated in the Christmas Carol Sing during the holidays, and after walking for blocks, these rosy-cheeked carolers gathered in the cafeteria to chat over hot chocolate. The group also entertained patients at Logansport State Hospital.

The Delphettes continue to strive for total perfection and musical accuracy, not only for their audiences, but also to achieve personal satisfaction. Their director, Mrs. James, acts as an inspiration to the entire group.

Talented Showmanship Entertains Listeners

This year Delphi and neighboring communities are listening to the voices of a newly formed group, the Youngtowne Singers. These talented youths rehearse weekly to ready themselves for convocations, local performances, school contests, vocal competitions, and the annual Christmas program at Logansport State Hospital.

The format of the group is varied and consists of show tunes, folk ballads, and seasonal medleys.

Keeping pace with the ever-changing scene, the Youngtowne Singers are clad in sharp outfits of gold and warm browns. They handle themselves in a near-professional manner and can always be counted on to perform in the best manner of singing groups.

The busy tempo of their activities can be well illustrated by the number of 7:30 A.M. practices they attend as well as after-school and noontime jam sessions.

The blending of the voices of these 26 young Americans add to the stature of music at DCHS.

Harmony And Precision Of Movement

A MUSICAL SUITCASE is about to be opened by bandsman Carl Snipes. Proper care of a musician's instruments is a daily task undertaken by a good band member.

Strains of DCHS's Varsity Band can be heard frequently and in various places about the community. Performances on the field at all home football games and from the balcony at the basketball games are anticipated and enjoyed by spectators old and young, musically-minded, and merely interested. The band is also asked to participate in parades and community activities in the area. The band presents two fine concerts each year for the public and also is a participant in a state contest in early February. The sounds of the Delphi Community High School Band are heard often and the resulting music gives evidence of the time and effort that these talented performers and directors put forth in preparing shows of interest and ability.

Where would we be without those jumping sounds produced in cadence by the Pep Band? This small group of responsible musicians adds much to the spirit of the occasion at convocations, parades and special school events.

Chosen from the DCHS Varsity Band, each member is one of the best representatives of his section. The 23 members are ready at all times to be called on to their musical chair in Pep Band. In concurrence with the cheerleaders, the Pep Band works out tunes in rhythm with the hand motions and the chants of the members of Pep Block.

Check off a superior rating for Pep Band—their ability to arouse school spirit is outstanding.

Band Music That Makes You Want To Dance

The Dance Band adds a dash of sparkle and punch to the musical atmosphere of the entire school. With every practice and with each performance, the group strives to build its repertoire, to perfect the handling of its instruments, and to build up a professional manner of showmanship while performing.

The Dance Band, being a semi-pro in its field, brings a particular spirited tone to numerous programs by lending timely tones of music.

Building their name with each note, the band works for cooperation between its members to lend a harmonious sound of pleasing musical blending to its rhythmic performances.

Its tempo is geared for the mode of the day, but its versatility gives creditable performance to tunes of other eras.

EIGHTH ROW: Benner, Snyder, Mays, Beard, Todd, Allen, Daly, Vianco, Stingley, Tharp.

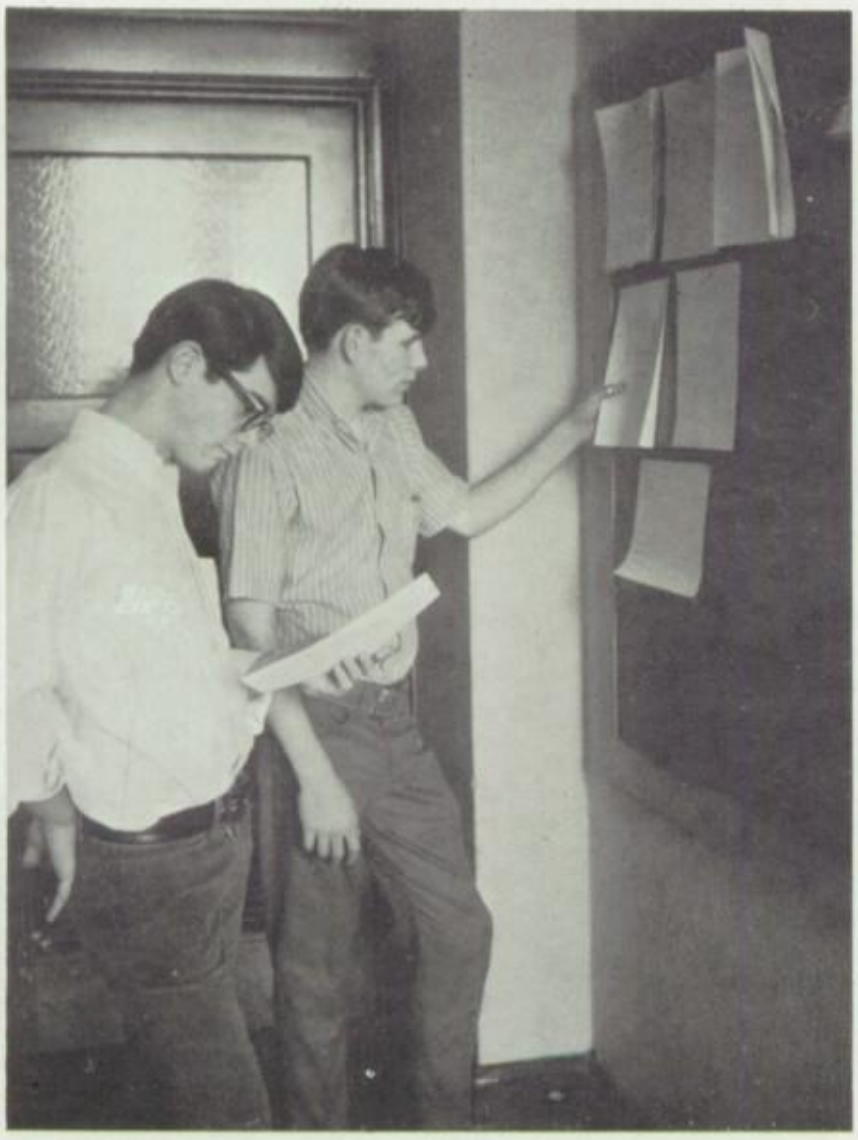
Donning black V-neck sweaters accented with gold scarves and white gloves, the DCHS Pep Block begins its privilege of spurring the teams onward to victory. The participants in this organization never experience dull or quiet moments, but instead they fill the athletic atsmosphere with energetic yells creating determination and hope for both the players and spectators.

Cheering our team to victory is only one of the tasks undertaken by Pep Block. It stimulates and displays school spirit by sponsoring after-game dances and by trimming the halls and walls with decorative sings that encourage victory for our team. Adding a dash of sportive enthusiasm the club helps with special convocation skits.

With these varied activities and the constant support that the DCHS Pep Block gives their teams, a high sport morale is instilled to this institution and to the community.

SYNCOPATED PEP BLOCK hand routines add flavor to the basketball games.

Intramural Provides Wholesome Fun Nights



POSTED GAMES STATISTICS are noted by Dan Sterrett and Charlie Franz.

A toss and a flip! The ballgame is on!

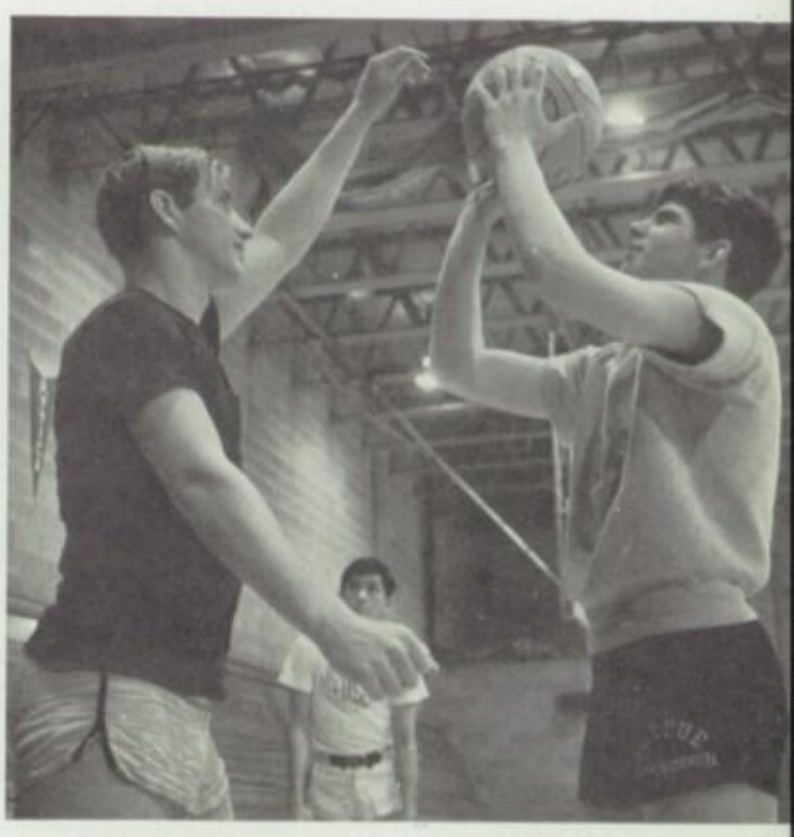
For the sake of fun, good company, sportsmanship, and exercise, the school boys play intramural games each Monday night.

There are no Alcindors, Barrys, or Chamberlains in the groups. They do not, of course, play as professionally as these men do, but, indeed, a little bit of shooting coupled with a little bit of fun is enough compensation for their perspiration.

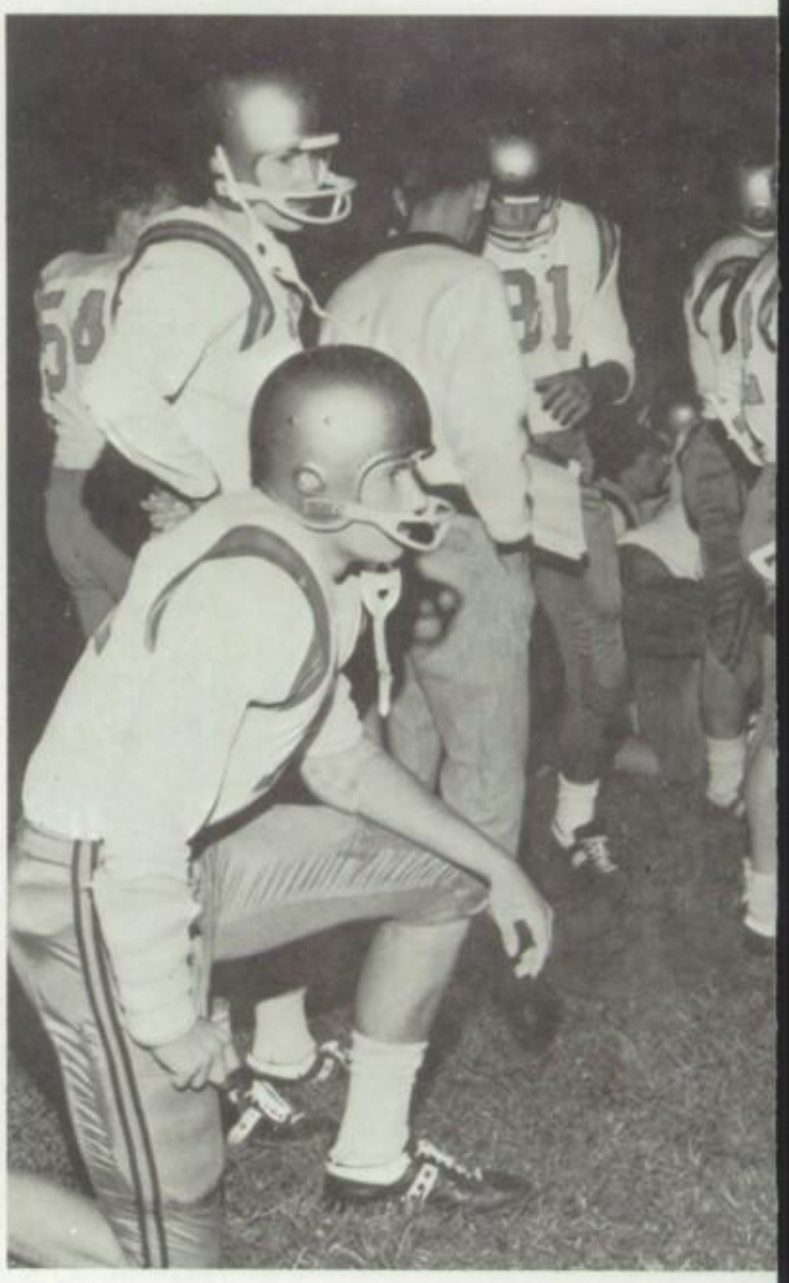
Serving not only for enjoyment, the intramural games help to develop mind and body. Participants work off excess energy, develop the muscular structure aid the respiratory system, and relieve the mind of daily school tensions. They also serve as a good way of spending one's leisure hours.

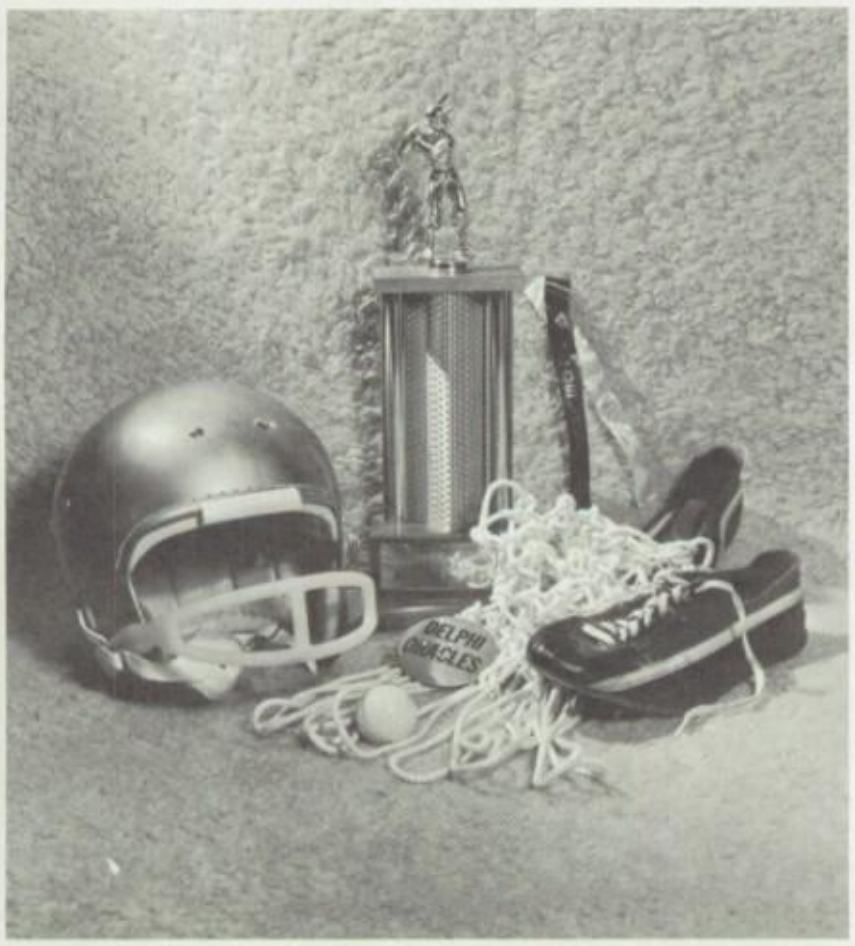
After every scrimmage, no matter how tired they are, the smiling faces of the players tell of the inner satisfaction they have obtained from these intramural games.

THE THUNDERING FEET, lusty yells, and enthusiasm of some 60 boys make every Monday night a busy one for the DCHS Gym.



ATTEMPTING TO MAKE A BASKET for his team, Phil Brookbank is temporarily blocked by an opposing guard, Jerry Henderson.





The Oracle Speaks

Of Athletics In Action

A nation is always interested in the physical fitness of its youth. Greece was ever famous for its athletic contests and Olympic Games. Sports of Delphi Community High School vary to include the interest and the skills of all students. Through sports, participants learn to cooperate with fellow teammates, to acquire the mastery of coordination, and to encounter the accomplishment of success.

Bertomen Extend Winning Streak To 30 . . .

Blessed with team desire, plenty of stamina, and determination to burn, Coach Tony Berto's 1966 edition of the Delphi Oracles couldn't be stopped as they stomped, romped and rolled-over ten straight victims enroute to their third straight undefeated, untied season, while extending Indiana's longest high school winning string to thirty games. The "Miracle Team", as they were labeled, gained further recognition at the conclusion of the season, ranking eleventh in the state in the final Associated Press football poll.

There was much reason for concern on the opening days of practice as only four returning offensive regulars reported for practice.

For three and one-half quarters of the opening game against visiting North Judson, it looked as if the Oracles' twenty game winning streak would soon be snapped. But the Oracles came from behind, scoring twice in the final five minutes of play to slip by the Bluejays, 20-13. From that point, it was pure determination that put the Oracles high above the good teams—they were champions.

The Oracles confronted a big test as they met a much bigger Peru outfit; nevertheless, a last minute goal-line stand preserved a 13-7 win.

A 21-6 victory over highly touted Rensselaer highlighted the 1966 homecoming festivities.

A huge crowd turned out two weeks later to see the Oracles (9-0) battle the Central Catholic Knights. Delphi battered CC for four touchdowns and emerged with their thirtieth straight win, 27-6.

Laurels continued to mount after the season's completion, as Steve Brehmer and Craig Groninger earned berths on the Associated Press All State football teams.

At the annual post-season banquet, Brehmer was named Most Valuable Player; Ron Israel, Outstanding Back; Larry Deel, Outstanding Lineman; Jim Borton, recipient of the Best Mental Attitude award.

Without a doubt, a well-deserving team was well-rewarded. As Coach Berto commented after the Central Catholic game, "The 1964 team was great, the 1965 team was greater, but this is the Miracle Team."

GAME STRATEGY IS CHECKED by Quarterback Steve Brehmer with Coach Berto.

QUICK PURSUIT and hard-nosed tackling like that of Borton and Groninger plant a new school defensive record of 3.9 points per game.

This year's reserve football team, coached by Bill Jargstorf, finished the season with a respectable 2 wins and 2 losses. Although the team was consistently outmanned, the players displayed great desire, and many gained valuable experience. Their wins included a 26-6 victory at Carroll and a 20-7 win over West Lafayette.

High Laurels Bestowed Upon Oracle Gridders

A SOUVENIR FOOTBALL is presented to Coach Berto from co-captain Ron Isreal during Oracle Appreciation Night festivities sponsored by the American Legion and local merchants.

WHILE GUIDING HIS TEAM through three straight undefeated seasons, Steve Brehmer earned the number 1 Quarterback position on the Associated Press All State team, a great honor for this deserving senior boy.

HIGHLIGHTED BY AN INTERESTING INTERVIEW with Coach Berto, who commented on his past experiences and his "Miracle Team", WSAL Logansport dedicated a radio program to DCHS.

Even after the 1966 football season had drawn to a close, honors kept mounting upon Coach Berto and his Oracles. Phil Eskew, Commissioner of IHSAA, was a surprise guest at the celebration convocation. At Oracle Appreciation Night, trophies were presented to Coach Berto and all team members. When the Associated Press All State teams, bringing yet another honor to our Craig Groninger were named as members of the All State teams, bringing yet another honor to our school. Without doubt, it was a fitting end to a remarkable season.

IHSAA COMMISSIONER Phil Eskew gives his compliments to Coach Berto and the team at the school convo following their 30th straight victory.

The 1966 Cross Country squad consisted of 14 boys, of which only two were returning lettermen.

Sophomore Rex Wilson posted a two-mile time of 10:49, the best time set by a Delphi runner. A consistent runner, Wayne Biggs, led the Oracles in more than half the meets.

During the 1966 season, Delphi participated with 83 teams, defeating 36, losing 46, and tying one. Although this was not a winning record, the team was young and showed great improvement during the season.

Despite a mediocre 10-10 mark, Delphi basketball took big steps this season, giving the roundball sport a much brighter outlook for the future here in Delphi.

After a victory against Southwestern in the initial contest of the season, the Oracles skidded to three consecutive setbacks before getting back in the winning bracket. The Oracle captured the Battle Ground Holiday Tourney crown by ousting Williamsport and Pine Village.

A big morale booster for the Oracles was a surprisingly easy win over the arch rival Carroll Cougars.

In the final Hoosier Conference standings, the Oracles tied for second place, finishing just behind a strong West Lafayette five.

A balanced scoring attack was a trademark of the 1966-67 Oracles. Senior guard Steve Brehmer led the way, averaging over 17 points per game. Seniors Mike Emmons and George Collins averaged over 15 points per game. Wayne Biggs and Steve Wood handled the rebounding more than adequately and also added to the scoring punch.

A LEAP IN THE AIR and the basketball is about to soar for a hoped-for point.

The Oracle Speaks

Of People In Progress

The ancient country of Greece had many groups of people within its confines. They concentrated on harmony and good citizenship. In Delphi Community High School the people also work for harmony and good citizenship. The Administration strives to enrich the students' minds while the students labor to make themselves a credit to their Alma Mater, feeling there can be no reproach if they do their best.

School Board Guides Programs And School

Acting as a unified group, the School Board plays an important role of responsibility and challenging opportunity. The members of this policy-making body strive to benefit the Delphi Community School Corporation by performing such duties as setting the annual budget, and maintaining a specific concern for the entire administrational functions. Also included in this action-packed routine of the Board this year is the careful planning and blue-print adopting of new school buildings to be built in the near future.

With the introducing, reforming, and accepting of various school policies, the members meet on Tuesday of every month and numerous days between in order that the proper governmental ideals are established effectively.

Dale Fossnock, President of the Board, sees that each member endeavors to perform his individual task and gains the desired result. It is obvious that the School Board has successfully created a firm governing background for the Delphi Community School Corporation.

In discussing tentative plans for a new school building, the school board members consult various references.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Superintendent Leads With Dedication

WORKING WITH VIGOR and zeal, Mr. Arthur O. Weddell, Superintendent of Schools, strives for efficiency and proficiency.

One of the busiest and most time-consuming jobs in any school system is that of Superintendent. Certainly, this is true in the case of our Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Arthur O. Weddell. A man with a neverending list of accomplishments and acquaintances, Mr. Weddell's favorite memories include his three year stay in Tehran, Iran, as Superintendent of American Schools, and his extensive Far East travels.

In a week's time, Mr. Weddell's tight schedule includes a lengthy School Board meeting, visiting all schools in the corporation, signing important contracts and papers, and giving numerous speeches for social functions. Usually intermingled with these events, Mr. Weddell finds time to buy sodas for a group of weary students or supply a winning team with a feast of hamburgers,

Despite the burdensome load that Mr. Weddell carries, he no doubt succeeds overwhelmingly in all of his duties.

TO EXECUTE ESSENTIAL DUTIES for the Superintendent are secretarial goals of Mrs. Edith Berninger, Mrs. Rita Wingard, and Mrs. Pauline Moore.

Principal Hertling Fills Responsible Role

AS PRINCIPAL, Mr. Hertling unites and administrates the executive departmet.

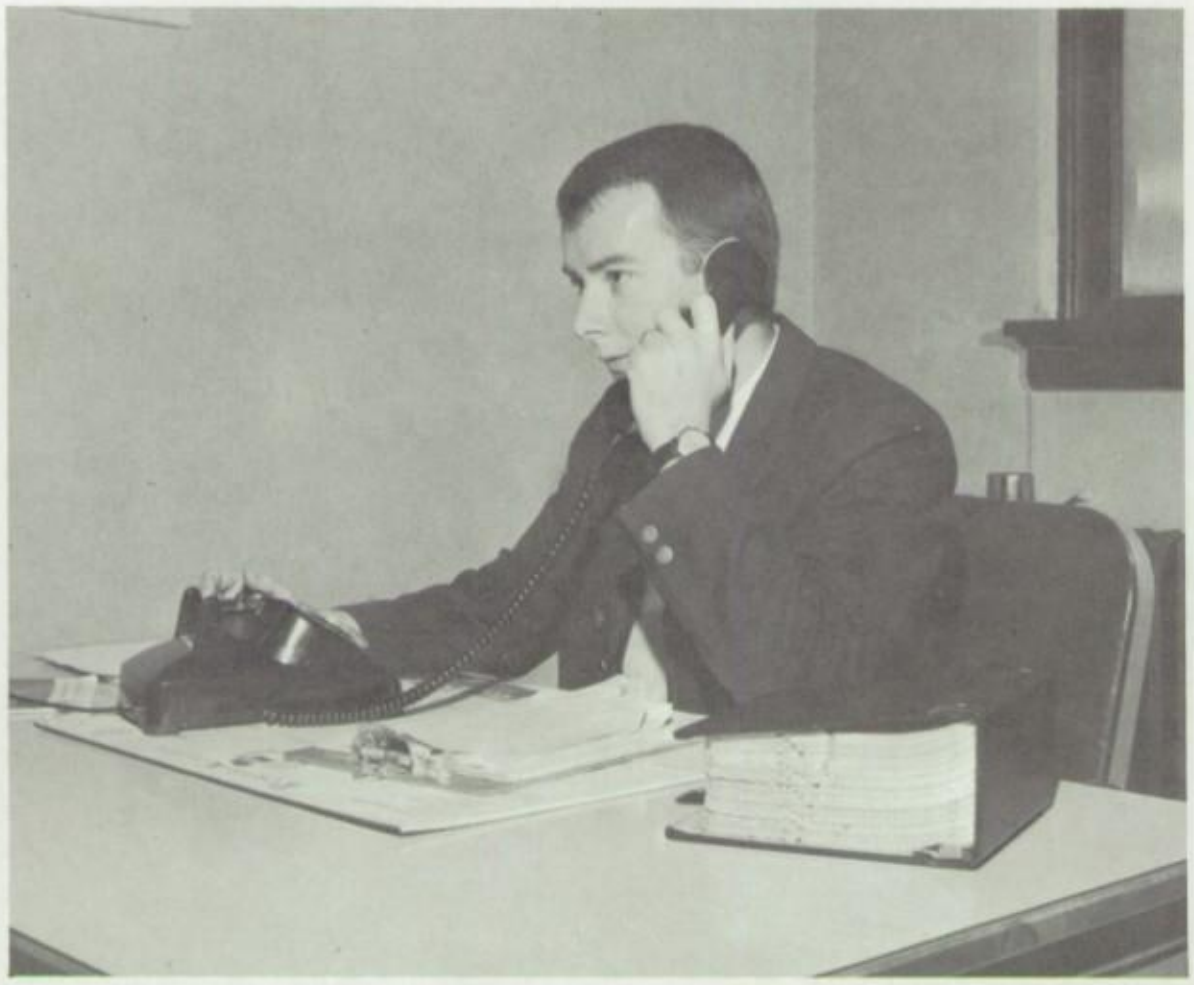
AS COOPERATIVE SECRETARIES
subordinate to the principal, Mrs. Grantham and Mrs. Lohrman play an efficient role.

A demanding, time-consuming job is that of being principal of a high school. Mr. James Hertling, the principal of Delphi Community High School, is a very busy man who has many responsibilities; but he is never too busy to find time to talk with students and teachers about their problems. Besides advising the student body and faculty, Mr. Hertling helps to set up curriculum and class schedules. Clip board in hand, he is often seen striding through the halls, jotting down notes as he goes.

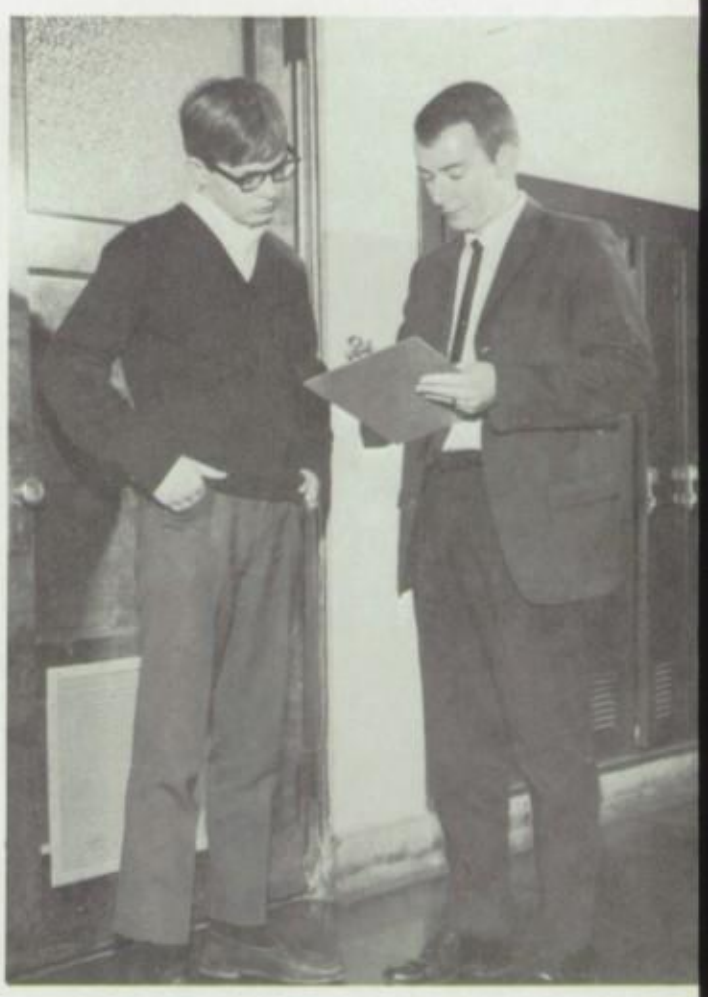
Whether in or out of his office, the principal carries a tremendous load upon his shoulders. Around him revolves the entire student body and school. If a club or class wishes to sponsor a project or trip, the final "O.K." must come from Mr. Hertling. Plans must go through his busy office before they can be carried out.

In order to fill the position of principal, one must be able to communicate with and understand faculty members as well as students. These are only a few of the vital things which Mr. Hertling, principal, must do.

Attendance In Check — Athletic Office Busy



CALLING A HOME TO inquire about an absent student is only a small part of Mr. Tyner's daily routine.



CHECKING HIS RECORDS, Mr. Tyner questions Scott McClean about his absence.

The job of the attendance officer today hasn't changed from his job in the "olden days." The hookeyplayers still seek seclusion from his watchful eye; occasionally, corrective action must be taken. Mr. Tyner will agree that this job calls for exacting work and precise operation.

Preparing the annual athletic schedule and coordinating sporting events are only a few of the demanding duties of the Athletic Director. Important agreements must also pass through the office of Mr. Ebrite, the DCHS Athletic Director.

Preparing schedules and supplying essential materials keep Mr. Ebrite busy at his typewriter.

Counselor Offers Guideline Opportunities

INTERESTED IN THE MATURATION of all DCHS students, Guidance Director Gerald Kolter is well informed in counseling techniques and generously gives his time and services to all students.

Shelves of helpful forms, pamphlets, and career folders line the Guidance Department walls. Students receive extensive testing programs there, which enable them to select their vocation or profession. Academic concerns are the major interests to this office, but students find help and answers to many social and family problems and questions.

New to DCHS, yet a veteran in guidance, Mr. Gerald E. Kolter received his Bachelors and Masters Degrees in Education from Ball State and Purdue Universities. A former agent with the Counter Intelligence Corps, Mr. Kolter is deeply involved in his work, yet finds some time for reading and sports.

A CONVOCATION OF GREAT INTEREST was presented by past graduates of DCHS on their experiences in the first years of college by Ned Brookbank, Marilyn Scott, Jim Ferrier, Moderator Mr. Kolter, Dianne Minneman, and Steve Hutton.

A GRACIOUS RECEPTIONIST, efficient secretary to Mr. Kolter, and a helpful information source to all students is Mrs. Shirley Wise.

Visions Of New Horizons Form For Seniors

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Secretary Diana Blickenstaff, Student Council Representative Tom Flora, Vice President Susan Dwyer, President Jim Borton, and Treasurer Jan Viney.

As the solemn seniors parade down the aisle on graduation day, many memories pass through their mind. The rapidly fading images range from freshman firsts to senior lasts. They recall faintly their first after-game dance, club membership, and Student Council event, and remember vividly homecoming, the Junior-Senior Prom, and fleeting senior prestige. The past is replaced by the ever-brightening vision of the future as the seniors advance toward the platform to accept their diplomas. Although they know not what lies ahead, the future is the moment's supreme concern as these maturing adults become citizens of the established society.

Magazine Sales, Prom Plans Occupy Juniors

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Student Council Representative Linda Wilcox, Vice President Craig Groninger, Secretary Martha Dwyer, Treasurer Marilou Been, and President Tom VanSickle.

Members of the junior class find this year to be full of responsibilities. The goal of the annual magazine sales can only be accomplished by teamwork. Each year the class president and seven members of the class work diligently to plan the Prom which is supported by the cooperation of all junior class members.

The junior year is one in which the future seniors endeavor to strengthen their scholastic ability and develop their potentials to qualify them as leaders of high school society.

A new awareness of their maturing individualism appears and with it the responsibilities of their new obligations.

On Their Second Stairstep Sophomores Stand Tall

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS: President Phil Walker, Student Council Representative Janet Grantham, Vice President Carl Snipes, Secretary Chris Dunham, and Treasurer Larry McKinley.

No longer lowly freshmen at the bottom of student society, the sophomores are able to participate in student government groups and begin to be actively involved in larger roles of various clubs and activities. The choosing of "the perfect class ring" is a major decision.

Frosh Play New Roles

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS: Vice President Susan Grantham, Secretary Jackie Janz, President Dan Haggard, and Treasurer Linda Long.

As tenderfoot freshmen navigate the teeming corridors, they sense an air of maturity. They now become contributors fo the booming, rhythmic atmosphere of the after-game dances and become members of school clubs. An important period in the careers of these students, this year serves as a foundation for their remaining three years. Memories of their high school "firsts" will remain with them throughout life.
